Three of the most important chronicles of eleventh-century Germany were composed in the south-western duchy of Swabia. The chronicles reveal how between 1049 and 1100 the centripetal attraction of the reform papacy became the dominant fact of intellectual life in German reformed monastic circles. In the abbey of Reichenau Herman 'the Lame' composed a chronicle of the reign of Emperor Henry III (1039-56). His pupil, Berthold of Reichenau, continued his master's work, composing a detailed account of 1076-1079 in Germany. Bernold, a clergyman of Constance, continued the work of Herman and Berthold in a text containing the fullest extant account of 1080-1100. Herman 's waning enthusiasm for the monarchy and growing interest in the newly reformed papacy were intensified in Berthold ' s chronicle, and writing in the new context of the reformed monasteries of south-western Germany, Bernold preached total obedience to the Gregorian papacy. The Swabian chronicles are an indispensable resource to the student of the changing loyalties and conflicts of eleventh-century Germany.

MAGGIE SLOAN's lifelong dream to be a spy began when she was four years old and already a focused, self-trained spy. After college, Maggie's job searches are futile despite her willingness to consider diverse employment opportunities, until the county library system hires her as a librarian. When Maggie's brilliant observational talents and her potential to expose complex criminal activity draw the attention of an international ring, she becomes their target. However, a senseless murder changes her life forever, and MAGGIE transforms from prey to predator. Will the librarian with the soul of a spy and the unusual security team stop the desperate kingpins or will she become the latest victim? It all comes down to kill or be killed.

As cooks, whether that be in a professional or home kitchen, there is one goal that many of us are trying to achieve right now: to cook more sustainably, to waste less and to have a lighter footprint on our environment. To cook greener. A big step in achieving this is for us all to make the step towards a more vegetable-led diet, and this book is packed with a comprehensive selection of vegetarian recipes, including a large number which are suitable for vegans. Accessible and simple, yet utterly delicious, the 100 recipes within these pages will delight home cooks and embody the MasterChef philosophy of 'ordinary people cooking extraordinary food'.

Whether it's a quick and simple dinner using whatever you might have at hand or a weekend feast to show off your MasterChef skills, there is something for even the hungriest of carnivores in these pages. With contributions from 10 MasterChef champions from around the world, recipes include: Smashed broad bean and peas on sourdough with goat's cheese, dukkah and mint Puy lentil salad with charred tenderstem broccoli and miso dressing Aubergine schnitzel with fennel, chilli and yoghurt coleslaw Mushroom and lentil lasagne ... and many more. Each and every recipe will be complemented with a stunning photograph, and a beautiful, fresh book design will ensure this is something that everyone, from meat-lovers to vegans, want to have on their shelves.

Magnetic Nanoparticles for Medical Diagnostics was written to encourage members of the medical profession to join experts from other fields of research in exploring the unique physical properties of magnetic nanoparticles for medical applications. It demonstrates the evolution from small groups of scientists fabricating magnetic sensors to multidisciplinary research on wide-ranging medical applications of magnetic nanoparticles, illustrating the regenerative and dynamic nature of this area of research. The book covers the following topics: Magnetic probe and magnetic nanoparticles for sentinel lymph node biopsy, Magnetic separation of endosomes, exosomes, mitochondria and autophagosomes using magnetic beads, New affinity 200 nm diameter nanobead technology and target isolation of bioactive compounds, Fluorescent magnetic beads for medical diagnostics including rapid detection of prostate cancer biomarker PSA, Medical applications of functional viral capsid-coated artificial beads, including magnetic nanoparticles, Magnetic hyperthermia using implant type heating mediators, Synthesis, dispersion and application of stable magnetic colloids including MRI contrast agents and drug delivery, Optical and magnetic detection of fluorescent magnetic beads for medical diagnostics for point-of-care testing Book jacket. This volume makes an important contribution to the growing literature on management consulting. It brings together international contributors from a wide variety of backgrounds and draws on recent empirical research from a diverse range of countries, consultancy firms, and client companies. The analysis focuses on three key areas. The first part of the book looks at the emergence and development of the consulting industry in different countries and time periods. The interplay between national systemic context and outside influences is stressed, and the efforts of consultants to become recognized as 'legitimate' knowledge carriers by their clients is highlighted, in competition — and sometimes cooperation — with other suppliers of management knowledge, notably academia.

The volume goes on to consider the generation, management, and validation of consulting knowledge by consultancy organizations and management gurus, showing how these activities are influenced not only by the consultancies' own characteristics in terms of size, structure, and national origin, but also by the (national and cultural) context in which they are operating, and by the role of 'gatekeepers', such as book publishers or journalists. The third part of the book focuses on the nature and dynamics of the consultancy-client relationship, focusing especially on the ways in which consultants convince managers of the need to hire outside advisors; on the reaction of those concerned in the client organization towards the consultants' recommendations; and on the methods used by the consultants to overcome the possible reluctance and resistance from within the organization. From a more theoretical point of view, the chapters in this volume also show that research on management consulting has to take into account different levels of analysis: the consulting industry as a whole and its position relative to other knowledge providers such as academia; the specific consultancy organization and its relationships with internal and external sources of knowledge; and the particular consultancy project and notably the interplay between the consultants and the various stakeholders within and outside the client organization.

"Mamas Baby & Poppa's Baby TOO" was envisioned then written to shift the narrative in African American culture that employs mothers to own and accept SOLE responsibility of the wellness growth and development of a child; while the father's role is merely questioned and undermined. I know we have heard phrase "Mama's Baby & Poppa's MAYBE." Here is an opportunity to UNLEARN. These children are "Poppa's Baby TOO." The responsibility should be a well-balanced combination of a mother and father (or two parent household including adult guardianship) involved at the fullest capacity;

when capable whether actively in a relationship and/or co-parenting, to ensure the safety, protection, mental and physical health of beautiful growing human beings. I hope you are just as inspired to read as I was intrigued and motivated raising attention to an idea generations approaching will embrace and appreciate. Let's break the cycles, chains, ideas and narratives that shouldn't of existed from the beginning. 2021 and beyond let's vow to EXUDE black excellence in all areas of our lives.

This book demonstrates that Rome did not conquer the kingdoms of the East. Instead, the Ptolemaic/Seleucid royal family made Rome the seat of a new empire. This insight explains the otherwise bizarre behavior of Tiberius, Caligula, Nero and also the strange rule of Rome's puppet king Herod the Great in Jerusalem. An exciting outcome of this study is that the Roman/Herodian identities of the Gospel figures, including and especially that of Jesus, can be definitively named.
