Handbook of Forensic Mental Health Services focuses on assessment, treatment, and policy issues regarding juveniles and adults in the criminal and civil systems. Uniquely, this volume is designed for professionals who deliver mental health services, rather than researchers. Just like its parent series, its goal revolves around improving the quality of mental health care services in forensic settings. It achieves this by integrating the findings related to clinical practice, administration, and policy from trends and best practice internationally that mental health professionals can implement.

A "must-read" (The Washington Post) funny and practical guide to help you find, build, and keep the relationship of your dreams. Have you ever looked around and wondered,

"Why has everyone found love except me?" You're not the only one. Great relationships don't just appear in our lives—they're the culmination of a series of decisions, including whom to date, how to end it with the wrong person, and when to commit to the right one. But our brains often get in the way. We make poor decisions, which thwart us on our quest to find lasting love. Drawing from years of research, behavioral scientist turned dating coach Logan Ury reveals the hidden forces that cause those mistakes. But awareness on its own doesn't lead to results. You have to actually change your behavior. Ury shows you how. This "simple-to-use guide" (Lori Gottlieb, New York Times bestselling author of Maybe You Should Talk to Someone) focuses on a different decision in each chapter, incorporating insights from behavioral science, original research, and real-life stories. You'll learn: -What's holding you back in dating (and how to break the pattern) -What really matters in a long-term partner (and what really doesn't) -How to overcome the perils of online dating (and make the apps work for you) -How to meet more people in real life (while doing activities you love) -How to make dates fun again (so they stop feeling like job interviews) -Why "the spark" is a myth (but you'll find love anyway) This "data-driven" (Time), step-by-step guide to relationships, complete with hands-on exercises, is designed to transform your life. How to Not Die Alone will help you find, build, and keep the relationship of your dreams.

The second edition of Managing Clinical Risk is an authoritative guide on how to engage in risk assessment and management practice in evidence-based, accountable and effective ways. Over the course of a dozen chapters, each oriented around a brief case study reflecting a different area of risk, practitioners are offered guidance on how to read referrals, how to decide what information matters to their evaluations, how to speak to a person who may be reluctant to engage in an assessment of this kind, how to organise the information they have gathered in order to prepare a risk formulation that will in turn guide risk management, and how to communicate opinions and recommendations in ways that have an impact. The book provides an evidence-based understanding of risk assessment and management in key areas of practice - violence, sexual violence, suicidal and self-harmful behaviour, as well as family and relationship violence, organised criminal and group-based violence, and violent extremism. Practices relevant to understanding violent behaviour in individuals are contrasted with those better suited for working with groups and organisations. How practitioners can take account of the diversity of the clients with whom they work is a central consideration in every chapter. And helping practitioners develop the skills to enable them to formulate risk where there may be multiple areas of concern is a key objective of this book. All the contributors to this updated guide to effective practice are scholar-practitioners - experienced professionals with a track record of writing and teaching about risk assessment and management practice in their respective fields. Therefore, this book contains realistic rather than idealistic representations of the work required to prevent harmful behaviour by the kinds of clients they work with. Together, contributors combine theoretical and research knowledge with a wealth of practical skills, emphasising the collaborative and recovery-focused nature of modern risk management.

Gower Federal Service Lippincott Williams & Wilkins There are many excellent texts on elementary differential equations designed for the standard sophomore course. However, in spite of the fact that most courses are one semester in length, the texts have evolved into calculus-like presentations that include a large collection of methods and applications, packaged with student manuals, and Web-based notes, projects, and supplements. All of this comes in several hundred pages of text with busy formats. Most students do not have the time or desire to read voluminous texts and explore internet supplements. The format of this differential equations book is different; it is a one-semester, brief treatment of the basic ideas, models, and solution methods. Its limited coverage places it somewhere between an outline and a detailed textbook. I have tried to write concisely, to the point, and in plain language. Many worked examples and exercises are included. A student who works through this primer will have the tools to go to the next level in applying differential equations to problems in engineering, science, and applied mathematics. It can give some instructors, who want more concise coverage, an alternative to existing texts.

The Emergence of the Middle Class

Third International Edition (March, 2014) In this concise and provocative guide to owning a woman, author Logan Alexander details the vital elements of possessing a female in the most extreme ways. The formal manual covers the aspects of introducing a woman to ownership, daily rituals, mental ownership, breaking in a woman, discipline, body modification, oral training and sexual gratification training. Author's Note: "The spirit of this manual is guided by the intense urge of a man to possess a woman in the deepest of ways. For some individuals, a normal relationship devoid of the extreme polarities of emotional, psychological and sexual experience that merge in dominance and submission play is akin to a death sentence of mediocrity. He wants her and her body so fully that he wants to make her his actual physical property. She wants to be craved and desired so badly that she wants to be made his real human possession. In a post-feminist world, women chose to be owned and self-made men want to own their women in fresh new ways. They reject traditional relationships and long for a kind of cosmic completeness that transforms daily life into rituals of kinetic connection and deviant eroticism. The manual is written primarily as a concise guide for men seeking to own a woman and women seeking to be owned by a man within a certain creative space of the BDSM realm. It is not a general relationship guide for every Dominant-submissive couple in the scene. It is inspired by the same masculine creative energies that gave rise to confrontational works of art and ancient traditions of phallic worship. It is but one subjective vision of living a life of creative control with a woman. It includes both broad strokes and extremely particular ideas. Yet, it also serves as a source of inspiration for men and women in any relationship as the desire to possess and be possessed is universal, even if it is only a small force within the complex dynamics of a normal relationship. Regular people have always fed on the excessive proclivities of those on the fringe of society and reality. The style of this work is formal for it is meant as a thought-provoking source from which to draw ideas and inspire fresh deviance. It is not, though, a how-to-guide on sophisticated rope tying techniques, ways of spanking, types of bondage or other technical BDSM skills. Real world experiences are included from first-hand experiences and direct conversations with men who own women and women who are owned by men. The practices are meant as ideal extremes of ownership to be used as one desires in the dynamic reality of an individual relationship."
