Physics for Scientists and Engineers Geoffrey Young

Creations of the Mind presents sixteen original essays by theorists from a wide variety of disciplines who have a shared interest in the nature of artifacts and their implications for the human mind. All the papers are written specially for this volume, and they cover a broad range of topics concerned with the metaphysics of artifacts, our concepts of artifacts and the categories that they represent, the emergence of an understanding of artifacts in infants' cognitive development, as well as the evolution of artifacts and the use of tools by non-human animals. This volume will be a fascinating resource for philosophers, and cognitive scientists, and psychologists, and

the starting point
for future research
in the study of artifacts and their role in human understanding,
development, and
behaviour.

When accidents
occur and people
suffer injuries,
who ought to bear
the loss? Tort law
offers a complex
set of rules to answer this question, but up to now philosophers
have offered little
by way of analysis of these rules. In eight essays
commissioned for
this volume,
leading legal
theorists examine the philosophical
foundations of tort

law. Amongst the questions they address are the following: how are the notions at the core of tort practice (such as
responsibility,
fault, negligence,
due care, and duty
to repair) to be understood? Is an explanation based on a conception of justice feasible?
How are concerns of
distributive and
corrective justice related? What amounts to an adequate
explanation of tort law? This collection will be of interest to professionals and
advanced students working in

philosophy of law,
social theory,
political theory,
and law, as well as
anyone seeking a better understanding of
tort law.
