Few caravan brands have the name recognition of Viscount. At the height of its popularity, the late 1970s, it was by a wide margin the biggest selling caravan brand in Australia. Many families would have fond memories of foreshore holidays in a Viscount and, indeed, many of these vans remain on the road.

1970 Viscount caravans: In the first half of 1970, the Viscount company was producing two brands, the Viscount and the Ambassador. The Valiant brand appears to have been discontinued in the late 1960s, however it was resurrected separately in 1972 and is covered in the Valiant history thread. The 1970 vans ranged from 10ft 6ins to 27ft.
