When I looked up, I was startled by a vision that invaded all of my view. From out of the sun, I watched a line of people walking across the sky toward me. They were covered with sunlight and seemed to be of the sunlight. The first person to appear from within the sunlight was a man. Following behind him was a woman who had a large load in her arms as she walked. The person to follow her was a greater Man. He held an even greater load in His arms. As I looked at this third person, The Lord spoke into my heart and said, "You are carrying a load, but while you carry this load, I will carry you. You are pregnant. Now go and carry Isabella to her parents." Following that man from within the sun, many people were walking. Some of them held things like instruments, and some held tools and equipment while marching. And in this large group, there were others who seemed to be dancing while following in this great formation. The vision came to an end, and I became aware of myself lying on my sheet again. I was in awe at what I had seen and began thinking about what The Lord had spoken to my heart, as I was absolutely sure of His communication with me in that moment. Though every piece of the vision was yet to be interpreted to me, I knew I was pregnant, and I was sure that that baby girl growing inside of me was to be named Isabella.

The idea of The Fingerprint Sourcebook originated during a meeting in April 2002. Individuals representing the fingerprint, academic, and scientific communities met in Chicago, Illinois, for a day and a half to discuss the state of fingerprint identification with a view toward the challenges raised by Daubert issues. The meeting was a joint project between the International Association for Identification (IAI) and West Virginia University (WVU). One recommendation that came out of that meeting was a suggestion to create a sourcebook for friction ridge examiners, that is, a single source of researched information regarding the subject. This sourcebook would provide educational, training, and research information for the international scientific community.

Doctrine provides a military organization with a common philosophy, a language, a purpose, and unity of effort. Rather than establishing a set of hard and fast rules, the objective of doctrine is to foster initiative and creative thinking. To this end, FM 3-06 discusses major Army operations in an urban environment. This environment, consisting of complex terrain, a concentrated population, and an infrastructure of systems, is an operational environment in which Army forces will operate. In the future, it may be the predominant operational environment. Each urban operation is unique and will differ because of the multitude of combinations presented by the threat, the urban area itself, the major operation of which it may be part (or the focus), and the fluidity of societal and geopolitical considerations. Therefore, there will always exist an innate tension between Army doctrine, the actual context of the urban operation, and future realities. Commanders must strike the proper balance between maintaining the capability to respond to current threats and preparing for future challenges.
