BATH TIME: - Nonslip bath mat is ESSENTIAL for safety - Bath thermometer. Always test the bath water temperature before placing your baby in the bath. Tip Get a good bath chair. Mothercare do a fantastic ergonomical chair where there is a piece of plastic between the baby's legs preventing your baby from sliding off. Having both of your hands free will help you to bath your baby. - Sponges for bath Tip I like to use two different sponges, one for baby's body and one for baby's privates. If you are going to use two different sponges, it is important to get two very different looking sponges so not to confuse. Also replace the sponges every month or so. - Face washers. Not just for cleaning faces, they are also great to place over the baby's stomach to prevent them getting cold while bathing - Oilatum. Oilatum comes as oil for the bath and a cream for after. Oilatum is great for dry skin. Tip I put a few drops of Oilatum in the bath every day to prevent dry skin. - Bath toys. There are foam alphabet pieces that stick to the side of the bath. You can make words for your baby. Rubber ducks and bubbles are always winners. Tip Be sure to clean and replace bath toys often as dirty water can get stuck inside and then contaminate clean bath water. - Disposable bed/change mats for on top of the towel when your baby is minus their nappy. It is much easier to cleanup if there is an accident - Hooded towel. Babies can be wrapped up snug as a bug.

Last Action Zero is a unique and comedic take on growing up during the New Labour government. From tuition fees protests to earning worthless degrees to joblessness, it chronicles a young man's disillusionment and his eventual coming of age. If you've wasted months of your life to video games, done a catalogue of crap jobs and messed it up with 'the one', Last Action Zero will show you how it's really done. Spanning a decade of bumbling failure, you'll journey from drug-fuelled raves to retail hell to the degenerate sands of Pattaya. Natasha. Her hair pulled back in a ponytail, head tilted at a slight downward angle, her face an orchid in full bloom. Her eyes glitter with life, her coffee-coloured skin is luminous, and she is giving me a carefree smile. I can't take my eyes off her. She is the sun that consumes my heart with fire. Protagonist Christopher Lawrence is a hapless student whose only concern is winning the heart of the beautiful Natasha Saunders – a girl barely aware of his existence. He follows her to clubs in the vain hope that the concoction of alcohol and pills will somehow bring them together, but he only ever sees her get off with other guys. Despite all the evidence that she's not interested in him, Chris never gives up hope. Blinded by desire and a total lack of life orientation, his adventures see him endure humiliation, parental disgrace and supreme ennui, with only a roster of degenerate friends for company. Last Action Zero is a coming-of-age tale showing just how much love, and the truth, hurts. It will appeal mainly to readers in their twenties and thirties, and will resonate with anyone who's suffered from the painful affliction of unrequited love.

On the Origin of Products Jennifer L. Clinehens When Joyce is 7 months pregnant, her husband Felix ends up in a freak accident, leaving him in a coma. Strange things are happening in the hospital before discovering something life-changing. Why would they turn a regular human into a lycan and what does this mean for their marriage? Teaser: "Come on, lets go for a walk. It's a beautiful night", he then says before helping me out of the chair. We walk out of the restaurant and he immediately holds my hand. "I love the way I am around you", I mumble and he chuckles. "I think you have had a little too much to drink." I stomp my foot onto the ground and look up at him. "I did not! I know perfectly well what I'm doing", I pout and this seems to make him amused even more. "Come on, let's enjoy the fresh air a little", he pulls me a little to make me follow him. "Are you always this charming?" I ask him then. Curse my loose lips! "Only with you", King Tyson says as he looks at me. The moonlight falls on his perfect face and makes his eyes twinkle. I stop in my tracks to stare at him and he raises an eyebrow. My hand lifts up to his face, trailing from his forehead down to his jawline. I can feel how he clenches his jaws and I can feel the stubble of his beard coming out over his cheeks and chin. Then I let my fingers slide over his lips. "You smell nice", I mumble again. "Do I now?" he says with a low voice. "Yes", I lay my hand on his chest and then grab his shirt, pulling him closer to me. I lean forward and close my eyes, enjoying his scent, before pushing him away again and letting him go. He growls softly as I push him away from me and I smile. "Oh what is it, big bad wolf? Are you not satisfied?" I tease him and I giggle. "Just keep going and you won't be laughing anymore", he growls and he pushes out his aura a little. My breath gets caught in my throat and my laugh falters. "You can't do that! It's not fair!" I whine. "You're not playing it fair either", he stalks towards me and I take a few steps back, before feeling my back hitting against a tree. His eyes turn dark as he stops in front of me. His hand touches my waist and he lets it slide behind my back before pulling me flush against him. I gasp and defensively put my hands in front of me, laying them flat on his chest. I can feel his heart beating fast in his chest. "You know I could easily make you submit to me", he then says. The vibration of his voice through his chest makes me swallow. His thumb strokes over my back and his scent is so strong, being so close to me. I close my eyes and let my head fall backwards slightly, letting out a small breath.

Commodity branding did not emerge with contemporary global capitalism. In fact, the authors of this volume show that the cultural history of branding stretches back to the beginnings of urban life in the ancient Near East and Egypt, and can be found in various permutations in places as diverse as the Bronze Age Mediterranean and Early Modern Europe. What the contributions in this volume also vividly document, both in past social contexts and recent ones as diverse as the kingdoms of Cameroon, Socialist Hungary or online eBay auctions, is the need to understand branded commodities as part of a broader continuum with techniques of gift-giving, ritual, and sacrifice. Bringing together the work of cultural anthropologists and archaeologists, this volume obliges specialists in marketing and economics to reassess the relationship between branding and capitalism, as well as adding an important new concept to the work of economic anthropologists and archaeologists.
