These, in Kukla's view, are the mental traps. In his introduction, Kukla compares his method to that of naturalist's guides, which take a very matter-of-fact approach to providing practical information. He then outlines eleven common mental traps, such as persistence, fixation, acceleration, procrastination and regulation.

Avoid these drains on pleasure and personal performance with guidance from Mental Traps. Psychologist and philosopher André Kukla opens your eyes to the eleven most common mental traps, including persistence --the refusal to abandon a useless task or course of action; amplification --the "killing a fly with a sledgehammer" syndrome; reversion --the "coulda-woulda-shoulda" disease; and resistance --the "let-me-just" disorder.
