Snowball—an aptly named bundle of feline fluff—is thankful to be spending her first Christmas in the comfort of Weber Haus, the Victorian B&B run by Miss Tilly. Emily Diemer, who cooks for the guests, dotes on Snowball, but she ’ s not thrilled about another new arrival at the B&B:

Miss Tilly ’ s nephew, Lukas. Which is odd, because Snowball ’ s animal instincts tell her that Lukas and Emily should definitely be friends. Everything Emily needs is in this quaint community—including, she hopes, the chance to open her own bakery one day. She doesn ’ t think much of Lukas for leaving his aging aunt to struggle while he jets around the world taking photographs. But now that he ’ s here, helping to spruce up the property and getting mixed up in Snowball ’ s antics, she begins to soften a little. Until she learns what he has planned . . . Lukas is going to sell Weber Haus so that Miss Tilly can retire. But Snowball is certain that this B&B, and these people, are supposed to be her forever home. Somehow she has to get these stubborn humans to see things through the wisdom of a cat ’ s eye and a kitten ’ s loyal, loving heart . . . “ Expertly crafted . . . the perfect Christmas treat. ” —Booklist (Starred Review)

Central is that idea that, although literary Paris reflects the changing fortunes of real Paris, the Paris depicted remains a uniquely American one because the heroes of the works are expatriate Americans, who apprehend the city through a foreign
