The Signe family is blessed with two daughters. Consuelo, the elder, is thought of as pensive and book-loving, the serious child-la ni ñ a seria-while Mili, her younger sister, is seen as vivacious, a ray of tropical sunshine. Two daughters: one dark, one light; one to offer comfort and consolation, the other to charm and delight. But, for all the joy both girls should bring, something is not right in this Puerto Rican family; a tragedia is developing, like a tumor, at its core. In this fierce, funny, and sometimes startling novel, we follow a young woman's quest to negotiate her own terms of survival within the confines of her culture and her family. magazine "Judith Ortiz Cofer has created a character who takes us by the hand on a journey of self-discovery. She reminds readers young and old never to forget our own responsibilities, and to enjoy life with all its joys and sorrows."--Bessy Reyna, MultiCultural Review

Preached at Enfield, Connecticut on July 8, 1741, this is perhaps the greatest sermon ever preached in America—and is certainly among the most well known. Owing to its forthright dealing with God's wrath and His intense hatred of sin and the sinner, it is also one of the most controversial. Indeed, for more than three-quarters of the sermon Edwards lays down a relentless stream of the most vivid and horrifying descriptions of the danger facing unregenerate men. While it is difficult to read such graphic language, there is abundant hope in the sermon's conclusion. Edwards puts it this way, "And now you have an extraordinary opportunity, a day wherein Christ has thrown the door of mercy wide open and stands calling and crying with a loud voice to poor sinners." While those who would rather ignore God's justice in favor of His mercy condemn Edwards and his sermon, those who were present and actually heard him preach that day reacted in a decidedly different manner. According to the diary of Reverend Stephen Williams who attended the sermon, "Before the sermon was done there was a great moaning and crying through the whole House, 'what shall I do to be saved; oh, I am going to hell, etc.'" The diary goes on to indicate that Edwards had to interrupt his sermon and come down to minister to those who were under such awful conviction. And so, in spite of what the scoffers might think or say, "the amazing and astonishing power of God" was manifested among the people that day—with many falling not into the hands of an angry God, but into the arms of a mighty Savior.

"New York Times" bestselling author Barbara Wood's latest novel follows a disinherited English baron and a young New York heiress who marry and move West to build an agricultural empire in Palm Springs in the 1920s when it was just a budding town on the edge of the Mojave Desert. It's a saga about ambition on both large and small scales and the rapidly modernizing world as the harsh, sun-drenched landscape transforms from a Native American haven to the playground of Hollywood's rich and famous. "Land of the Afternoon Sun" is also the story of a woman finding her own personality and strength in the West against a breathtaking desert landscape that changes constantly and shows its deadly side in poisonous snakes, flash floods and sand storms, with dramatic moments of forbidden romance, reversals, treachery, betrayal and, ultimately, triumphs.

NATIONAL BEST SELLER • A mind-bending new collection of short stories from the internationally acclaimed, best-selling author.

• "Some novelists hold a mirror up to the world and some, like Haruki Murakami, use the mirror as a portal to a universe hidden beyond it." —The Wall Street Journal The eight stories in this new book are all told in the first person by a classic Murakami narrator. From memories of youth, meditations on music, and an ardent love of baseball, to dreamlike scenarios and invented jazz albums, together these stories challenge the boundaries between our minds and the exterior world. Occasionally, a narrator may or may not be Murakami himself. Is it memoir or fiction? The reader decides. Philosophical and mysterious, the stories in First Person Singular all touch beautifully on love and solitude, childhood and memory. . . all with a signature Murakami twist.

Prospects for the 1907 archaeological season in Egypt are looking somewhat dull to Amelia. As a result of Emerson's less-than-diplomatic behaviour, they have been demoted to examining only the most boring tombs in the Valley of the Kings - mere leftovers, really. And then, in a seedy section of Cairo, the younger members of the Peabody Emerson clan purchase a mintcondition papyrus of the famed Book of the Dead, the collection of magical spells and prayers designed to ward off the perils of the underworld and lead the deceased into everlasting life. But for as long as there have been graves, there have also been grave robbers - and so begins a new adventure into antiquity. The season rapidly switches from dull to deadly as Amelia strives to untangle a web woven of criminals and cults, stolen treasures and fallen women - all the while under the unblinking eye of a ruthless, remorseless killer.

"La Plaza del Diamante" de Mercè Rodoreda, es una de las novelas más importantes y bellas publicadas en el siglo XX. Por su construcción del discurso, simbología, pluralidad de experiencias, etc. de ella pueden hacerse diversas lecturas. La que Josefa Buendía hace y propone en este libro tiene como marco la categoría de género, la crítica de la recepción y la crítica literaria feminista. A través de este prisma se comprueba cómo "La Plaza del Diamante" es una obra inacabada, abierta a las quejas, gritos, explicaciones, confidencias de Natalia... para, desde ahí, reflexionar e imaginar la vida de otras muchas Natalias. Su estilo de escritura hablada favorece la interlocución con la protagonista, con los temas que sugiere y los contextos construidos; permite recrear personajes e historias, dando forma y densidad a sus vidas, poniendo contenido en sus sentimientos y pensamientos, reconstruir perfiles y dar sentido a los mundos de los actores que componen y organizan el enredo de la novela. Con este libro sobre la obra de Mercè Rodoreda se rinde homenaje a esta escritora catalana en el centenario de su nacimiento.

From bestselling author of the remarkable memoir, The Distance Between Us comes an inspiring account of one woman's quest to find her place in America as a first-generation Latina university student and aspiring writer determined to build a new life for her family one fearless word at a time. "Here is a life story so unbelievable, it could only be true" (Sandra Cisneros, bestselling author of The House on Mango Street). As an immigrant in an unfamiliar country, with an indifferent mother and abusive father, Reyna had few resources at her disposal. Taking refuge in words, Reyna's love of reading and writing propels her to rise above until she achieves the impossible and is accepted to the University of California, Santa Cruz. Although her acceptance is a triumph, the actual experience of American college life is intimidating and unfamiliar for someone like Reyna, who is now estranged from her family and support system. Again, she finds solace in words, holding fast to her vision of becoming a writer, only to discover she knows nothing about what it takes to make a career out of a dream. Through it all, Reyna is determined to make the impossible possible, going from undocumented immigrant of little means to "a fierce, smart, shimmering light of a writer" (Cheryl Strayed, author of Wild); a National Book Critics Circle Award Finalist whose "power is growing with every book" (Luis Alberto Urrea, Pulitzer Prize finalist); and a proud mother of two beautiful children who will never have to know the pain of poverty and neglect. Told in Reyna's exquisite, heartfelt prose, A Dream Called Home demonstrates how, by daring to pursue her dreams, Reyna was able to build the one thing she had always longed for: a home that would endure.

Mujeres de Ojos Grandes: Pequeñas y Magistrales Historias Que Manifiestan La Insurgencia Femenina Narcea Ediciones

En el convulso México prerrevolucionario de finales del siglo XIX Emilia Sauri crece en el seno de una familia liberal. Durante su infancia, transcurrida entre conversaciones políticas, infusiones y remedios naturales, tiene la fortuna de aprender el mundo de quienes viven con ingenio, avidez y entereza. Con los años, Emilia se convierte en una mujer que lucha por sus convicciones y se niega a renunciar a sus sentimientos, enfrentando las limitaciones impuestas a su condición femenina y el peligro de amar locamente a dos hombres: a Daniel Cuenca, un aventurero y revolucionario que pobló sus sueños infantiles y, ya en su madurez, a Antonio Zavalza, un médico que busca la paz en medio de la guerra civil. Sensacional contadora de historias, Ángeles Mastretta retrata la de una pasión entretrejida con la de un país a su vez apasionado, la de una guerra y de una familia, y la de algunas vocaciones desmesuradas. Regida por la mejor tradición de las novelas costumbristas, Mal de amores fue galardonada con el prestigioso Premio Rómulo Gallegos en 1997, y es hoy una obra querida y siempre recomendada por cuantos se han perdido, o encontrado, entre sus páginas.
