"In this book journals are seen in every situation and from every angle, as if mounted on a slow turntable under a spotlight. The conclusion of most of the teachers and students using them is that they get people thinking, they help them test their own experience against the ideas of many others-- the authorities they're studying, their teachers, their fellow students ... The payoffs from using journals in classrooms are here shown to be astounding. Students learn from making mistakes and half-forming ideas. They learn to think, not by doing exercises in a faddish "critical thinking" textbook, but by working their way through real questions, with real interest and real intent"--Back cover.

A look at how to teach history in the age of easily accessible—but not always reliable—information. Let 's start with two truths about our era that are so inescapable as to have become clichés: We are surrounded by more readily available information than ever before. And a huge percent of it is inaccurate. Some of the bad info is well-meaning but ignorant. Some of it is deliberately deceptive. All of it is pernicious. With the Internet at our fingertips, what 's a teacher of history to do? In Why Learn History (When It 's Already on Your Phone), professor Sam Wineburg has the answers, beginning with this: We can 't stick to the same old read-the-chapter-answer-the-question snoozefest. If we want to educate citizens who can separate fact from fake, we have to equip them with new tools. Historical thinking, Wineburg shows, has nothing to do with the ability to memorize facts. Instead, it 's an orientation to the world that cultivates reasoned skepticism and counters our tendency to confirm our biases. Wineburg lays out a mine-filled landscape, but one that with care, attention, and awareness, we can learn to navigate. The future of the past may rest on our screens. But its fate rests in our hands. Praise for Why Learn History (When It 's Already on Your Phone) “ If every K-12 teacher of history and social studies read just three chapters of this book— ” Crazy for History, ” “ Changing History . . . One Classroom at a Time, ” and “ Why Google Can 't Save Us ” —the ensuing transformation of our populace would save our democracy. ” —James W. Lowen, author of Lies My Teacher Told Me and Teaching What Really Happened “ A sobering and urgent report from the leading expert on how American history is taught in the nation 's schools. . . . A bracing, edifying, and vital book. ” —Jill Lepore, New Yorker staff writer and author of These Truths “ Wineburg is a true innovator who has thought more deeply about the relevance of history to the Internet—and vice versa—than any other scholar I know. Anyone interested in the uses and abuses of history today has a duty to read this book. ” —Niall Ferguson, senior fellow, Hoover Institution, and author of The Ascent of Money and Civilization
