also host guest faculty from time to time.

Narrative Therapy
Jill Freedman
 Narrative therapy is a post-structuralist therapy. Rather than seeking to classify individuals in terms of general classes or types, we seek specific details of each person, family, or community's identity. Rather than valuing the knowledge of "experts," we value local knowledge.

Explorations of the absent but implicit - The Dulwich Centre
 At Evanston Family Therapy Center we have been dedicated to teaching narrative therapy for more than two decades.

Our ongoing programs are taught by Jill Freedman and Gene Combs. We also host guest faculty from time to time. In addition to Michael White and David Epston, David Denborough, Vicki Dickerson, Jim Duvall, Vanessa Jackson, Bill Madsen, Vikki Reynolds, Cheryl White, and Karen Young have all presented here in recent years.
