Notes from an Accidental Band Geek by Erin Dionne

In music, an accidental is a note of a pitch (or pitch class) that is not a member of the scale or mode indicated by the most recently applied key signature. In musical notation, the sharp (\sharp), flat (\flat), and natural (\natural) symbols, among others, mark such notes—and those symbols are also called accidentals.. In the measure (bar) where it appears, an accidental sign raises or lowers the ...

A note with a sharp accidental will sound a semitone higher than the same note without a sharp. For example, when notated with a sharp accidental, a C on the piano would become a C#. Instead of playing the C, you would play the note a half-step higher than C, which is the black key to the right of the C on a modern piano.
