Baudelaire was a member of the Club Des Hashichins (Hashish Club), founded in Paris around 1835, whose members met to enjoy cannabis. He wrote on hashish with great acuity, but it was from his studious note-taking, rather than in-depth personal experience. As Baudelaire put it, "wine makes men happy and sociable; hashish isolates them.

Charles Baudelaire on alcohol and hashish
On Wine and Hashish is a short, lyrical glimpse into two drugs but mostly explores the effects of hashish. I liked this book so much better than Thomas de Quincey's Confessions of an English Opium-eater & Other Writings, probably because Baudelaire does such a great job capturing the effects of the altered mind. I don't quite agree with Baudelaire's proclamations that artificially stimulating ...
