Friendship. Romance. Family. These are the three areas Ethan Nichtern delves into, taking as departure points the indelible characters--Westley, Fezzik, Vizzini, Count Rugen, Princess Buttercup, and others from Rob Reiner's perennially popular film--as he also draws lessons from his own life and his work as a meditation teacher. Nichtern devotes the first section of the book to exploring the dynamics of friendship. Why do people become friends? What can we learn from the sufferings of Inigo Montoya and Fezzik? Next, he leads us through all the phases of illusion and disillusion we encounter in our romantic pursuits, providing a healthy dose of lightheartedness along the way by sharing his own Princess Buttercup List and the vicissitudes of his dating life as he ponders how we idealize and objectify romantic love. Finally, Nichtern draws upon the demands of his own family history and the film's character the Grandson to explore the dynamics of "the last frontier of awakening," a reference to his teacher Chogyam Trungpa's claim that it's possible to be enlightened everywhere except around your family. By the beginning of the twentieth century, only four known copies of the book survived. Now, thanks to the careful work of Richard Groves, Helwys's "The Mystery of Iniquity" is available in a reader-friendly edition. Groves's introduction sets the document in context, not only as an important and influential historical event but as shedding yet more light on whence we have come.

Excerpt from The Coming Peace: Oration Delivered Before the City Council and Citizens of Boston on the One Hundred and Fifteenth Anniversary of the Declaration of Independence, July 4, 1891 Mr. Mayor and Fellow-citizen: - For the one hundred and eighth time the municipality of Boston to-day invites her citizens to join in celebrating the greatest political anniversary that recurs in the calendar of time. Ever since the Fourth of July 1783, when the independence of the United States, declared seven years before, had at last been acknowledged by Great Britain, the day when this nation took its place among the powers of the earth has been commemorated in this city by an unbroken line of municipal orators. The elaborate and scholarly oration of the past, full of classical, literary, and historical allusion, has almost passed away, and is no longer expected; yet it is with diffidence that I enter the excellent fellowship of those who have preceded me in this office, and attempt to add anything to the thoughts which this occasion has suggested. What you wear. What you say. What you think/ignore/buy/don't buy... Welcome to One City-Population: Everyone-where EVERYTHING you do matters. You've lived here your whole life, whether you know it or not. Ethan Nichtern, the charismatic and creative force behind New York's upstart Interdependence Project is your guide to the beauty that is everywhere in the urban jungle-in the rattling of subway trains, the screechings of traffic, the hum and drone of millions scurrying for work, food, sustenance, art, culture, and meaning. There may be no greater setting for exploring the great truth that Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. expounded: "Whatever effects one directly, effects all indirectly." One City melds Dr. King's message with modern Buddhist wisdom to offer a new way of understanding what binds us all together-no matter where we are, no matter who. With its pop-culture savvy, humor, and literary liveliness, One City will speak to--and even, it's fair to say, help define--the spiritually-inclined, conscious Next Generation.

Excerpt from Oration Delivered Before the City Council and Citizens of Boston: On the One Hundred and First Anniversary of the Declaration of American Independence The oration was delivered in the Boston Theatre, before an audience of three thousand persons. After music by the Cadet Band, the Mayor, Hon. Frederick O.Prince, introduced the chaplain of the occasion, the Rev. Robert Laird Collier, who made an eloquent prayer. The Mayor then spoke as follows: - We are assembled, fellow-citizens, for the purpose of celebrating, more majorum, the anniversary of the Declaration of American Independence. It is fitting and proper that we should do so, for there is no event recorded in our annals more solemn and important than this great announcement to the world by the patriotic men of 1776, in Congress assembled, that the American colonies were no longer British dependencies, but free, sovereign, and independent States. What human act can be more grave and momentous than that which creates a nation? The four millions of people who hailed the dawn of the 4th of July, 1776, are now approaching fifty millions. Winner of the Francis Parkman Prize, Society of American Historians "A tour de force. . . . No one has ever written a book on the Declaration quite like this one."—Gordon Wood, New York Review of Books Featured on the front page of the New York Times, Our Declaration is already regarded as a seminal work that reinterprets the promise of American democracy through our founding text. Combining a personal account of teaching the Declaration with a vivid evocation of the colonial world between 1774 and 1777, Allen, a political philosopher renowned for her work on justice and citizenship reveals our nation's founding text to be an animating force that not only changed the world more than two-hundred years ago, but also still can. Challenging conventional wisdom, she boldly makes the case that the Declaration is a document as much about political equality as about individual liberty. Beautifully illustrated throughout, Our Declaration is an "uncommonly elegant, incisive, and often poetic primer on America's cardinal text" (David M. Kennedy).
