Our Daily Walk Our Daily Bread Publishing

Many Christians struggle with the concept of walking by faith, especially in a world that says faith is all about taking risks--leaping into uncharted territory and expecting everything to be okay. In Despite Doubt, Michael E. Wittmer reexamines this popular viewpoint and encourages readers to get a clear understanding of their assurance in God and salvation. Readers will examine the flip side of doubt that opens the door to questions, answers, and knowledge about securing their trust in God. Helping readers to discover how to embrace a confident faith, Despite Doubt includes questions for reflection and discussion and is a perfect resource for small group study.

Discipleship is more than learning a routine. It's an invitation to a relationship of love and trust—allowing Jesus to do for you what you can never do for yourself. A Woman Jesus Can Teach studies the lives of several women in the Gospels who were changed by an encounter with Christ. Author Alice Mathews encourages you to see Jesus as a compassionate man who "defied convention and took enormous risks to offer hope, new life, or a second chance to women." In this large print book, learn how to trust this Son of God, align your priorities with Him, and respond to His call. Crusading in Art, Thought and Will AuthorHouse

Crusade scholarship has exploded in popularity over the past two decades. This volume captures the resulting diversity of approaches, which often cross cultures and academic disciplines. The contributors to this volume offer new perspectives on topics as varied as the application of Roman law on slavery to the situation of Muslims in the Latin East, Muslim appropriation of Latin architectural spolia, the roles played by the crusade in medieval preaching, and the impact of Latin East refugees on religious geography in late medieval Cyprus. Together these essays demonstrate how pervasive the institution of crusade was in medieval Christendom, as much at home in Europe as in the Latin East, and how much impact it carried forth into the modern era. Contributors are Richard Allington, Jessalynn Bird, Adam M. Bishop, Tomasz Borowski, Yan Bourke, Sam Zeno Conedera, Charles W. Connell, Cathleen A. Fleck, Lisa Mahoney, and C. Matthew Phillips.

Heaven has often been depicted as a place where everyone is dressed in white, floating on clouds, and playing harps. In this Bible study, former RBC Ministries president Richard DeHaan gives you a clear description of heaven and explains what will actually take place there. Carefully guiding you through Scripture in both the Old and New Testaments, he offers answers to some of the most common questions asked about heaven and encourages you to anticipate a glorious reunion with God.

Aromatherapy for Health Professionals E-Book National Academies Press

This book is a disarming look into one man's faith journey that will penetrate your heart and infiltrate your concept of God, whatever that currently is, to show the unmistakable, the famous Yahweh, Elohim, Jehovah, El Shaddai—the presence of the Almighty God—still alive and at work today in the life of one very ordinary man. The author shares the rawness of his journey with Christ through one of his life's great valleys and winds up following God eight thousand miles from home—only to find that God was up to more than he could have imagined. His story tugs at the heart of obedience in the small things, what it means to surrender your life to Christ, and what God might wind up doing with that through the process.

Meditations with a rich spiritual tone. A favorite daily 365 devotional volume. Topical index. The Electronic Church in the Digital Age Lexington Books

This book is a political and theological reflection on the violence and injustice that has taken place in Mexico and Central America since 2006 as a result of the drug war. In order to understand and respond to this conflict in the age of globalization, William A. Walker III combines the work of philosopher Enrique Dussel and theologian Hans Urs von Balthasar to develop a theology of the drug war that transcends both a Eurocentric conception of the world and a merely political account of salvation. Walker also highlights examples of Christian and church-based approaches to practicing neighborliness and resistance to drug trade-related violence, challenging both Christians and non-Christians to participate in the creation of a more just and merciful society.

The World and the Word: Making Sense of Social Science in an Age of Conflict, Opposition, and Grace Zondervan Academic

Christians are all too familiar with the dichotomy between "being a Mary" (sitting at Jesus' feet) and "being a Martha" (being active in ministry). We have been told that before we can do, we first need to be. And this is well and good. But it is insufficient. Before we can be, we first need to know. We need to know who God is (God's attributes) so that we can then be who we are intended to be in Christ. Only then should we seek to do what he has called and equipped us to do for his glory. This book focuses on knowing God, in his many attributes, so that we can become conformed to his image, in order to do what he's called us to do to bring the gospel to the world.

"Broken dreams" sounds so hollow. There's something you desperately want but can't have. Is there purpose in your pain? Sheridan Voysey—a man who walked through the wilderness—says "yes." He makes a comparison of the Jews' biblical wilderness journey to the wilderness we find ourselves in when we are empty and desperately asking God, "Why?" God uses these times to teach us about ourselves and reveal Himself to us. So even when God says "no," you can trust that He will walk with you during your darkest moments and offer His hope for your future.
