The story that Alan tells is the story of his life in Africa. In this, the first of a 3-book series, Alan tells the story of his early life in Southern Rhodesia and how he came to know the Lord Jesus Christ as his Lord and Saviour. It concludes with his call into ministry and the 'laying on of hands' at an Easter Convention at his home Assembly in what was then Salisbury, in a country then known as Rhodesia. The following two books will relate his experiences as a minister of the Gospel in Rhodesia, Zimbabwe-Rhodesia and finally Zimbabwe, before leaving Africa for the United Kingdom.

In this poetry collection, Brian L. Porter will take you into the center of the action and make you feel as if you're really there. One minute you'll find yourself in the cockpit of a bomber, limping home from a raid over enemy territory, and the next in a dogfight during the Battle of Britain. Author and screenwriter Brian L. Porter served with the RAF during the Cold War. Many of the works in this collection are based on the personal experiences of those who took part in the conflicts they depict; men and women who were pleased to relate those experiences to the author. You will experience the poignancy of his words, the simple message of Remembrance, the moving dignity of Polska, and the graphic horror of the concentration camps, as related in Holocaust.
