Principles of Accounting is designed to meet the scope and sequence requirements of a two-semester accounting course that covers the fundamentals of financial and managerial accounting. This book is specifically designed to appeal to both accounting and non-accounting majors, exposing students to the core concepts of accounting in familiar ways to build a strong foundation that can be applied across business fields. Each chapter opens with a relatable real-life scenario for today's college student. Thoughtfully designed examples are presented throughout each chapter, allowing students to build on emerging accounting knowledge. Concepts are further reinforced through applicable connections to more detailed business processes. Students are immersed in the "why" as well as the "how" aspects of accounting in order to reinforce concepts and promote comprehension over rote memorization.

A well-known result is that k 1-price auctions dissolve a partnership efficiently when the share structure is sufficiently close to equal. We extend the setup in two directions. First, we introduce complementarities by assuming a nontrivial continuation value of the partnership that is lost in case of dissolution. This makes inefficient breakups as well as continuation possible outcomes. Second, we assume that dissolution is not given, but must be triggered by a deliberate decision of at least one partner. This implies a signaling game, where calling for dissolution signals private information. We show that, in our extended setting, standard k 1-price auctions cannot dissolve a two-player equal-share partnership ex post efficiently. While allowing for veto or requiring consent does not help, adding a proper reserve restores efficiency.

Dissolution of Partnership Dissolution of a partnership refers to the termination of the partnership business and the cessation of its operations. It typically involves winding up the affairs of the partnership, liquidating its assets, paying off its liabilities, and distributing any remaining assets to the partners or their representatives. Here's an overview of the dissolution process: Decision to Dissolve: Dissolution may occur for various reasons, such as expiration of the partnership term, mutual agreement among the partners, death or incapacity of a partner, bankruptcy, or irreconcilable disagreements among the partners. The decision to dissolve the partnership is typically made in accordance with the partnership agreement or applicable laws. Notice to Creditors and Stakeholders: Upon deciding to dissolve the partnership, the partners must notify creditors, suppliers, employees, and other stakeholders of the impending dissolution. This allows them to make necessary arrangements and file any claims against the partnership. Winding Up Affairs: The partners must wind up the affairs of the partnership, which includes completing ongoing projects, collecting outstanding receivables, settling outstanding payables, and fulfilling any contractual obligations. Liquidation of Assets: Partnership assets are liquidated, either through sale or distribution to the partners. This may involve selling tangible assets such as inventory, equipment, or real estate, as well as intangible assets such as goodwill or intellectual property rights.

Payment of Liabilities: The proceeds from asset liquidation are used to pay off the partnership's liabilities, including debts, loans, accounts payable, and other obligations. Creditors are typically paid in order of priority, as determined by applicable laws or contractual agreements.

Distribution of Remaining Assets: After settling all liabilities, any remaining assets are distributed among the partners in accordance with their ownership interests as outlined in the partnership agreement. This distribution may be in cash, property, or other assets, depending on the nature of the partnership's business and assets.

Tax Filings and Compliance: The partnership must file final tax returns with relevant tax authorities and comply with any tax requirements associated with the dissolution. This may include filing final income tax returns, paying any outstanding taxes, and fulfilling reporting obligations.

Legal Dissolution and Documentation: Once all affairs are settled, the partnership may undergo legal dissolution by filing dissolution documents with the appropriate government authorities. This formally terminates the partnership's existence and ensures compliance with legal requirements.

Notification to Stakeholders: Finally, the partners must notify all stakeholders, including clients, suppliers, employees, and regulatory agencies, of the dissolution and ensure that all necessary steps are taken to wrap up any remaining business matters.

Dissolution of a partnership can be a complex process, requiring careful planning, coordination, and adherence to legal and regulatory requirements. Partners should seek professional advice from legal and financial experts to ensure a smooth and orderly dissolution process while minimizing legal risks and liabilities.

" We have fun and we enjoy each other ' s company, so why shouldn ' t we just move in together? " —Lauren, from Cohabitation Nation Living together is a typical romantic rite of passage in the United States today. In fact, census data shows a 37 percent increase in couples who choose to commit to and live with one another, forgoing marriage. And yet we know very little about this new " normal " in romantic life. When do people decide to move in together, why do they do so, and what happens to them over time? Drawing on in-depth interviews, Sharon Sassler and Amanda Jayne Miller provide an inside view of how cohabiting relationships play out before and after couples move in together, using couples ' stories to explore the he said/she said of romantic dynamics. Delving into hot-button issues, such as housework, birth control, finances, and expectations for the future, Sassler and Miller deliver surprising insights about the impact of class and education on how relationships unfold. Showcasing the words, thoughts, and conflicts of the couples themselves, Cohabitation Nation offers a riveting and sometimes counterintuitive look at the way we live now.

This paper analyses the efficiency of the Texas shootout and 1 / 2-auction partnership dissolution mechanisms when one of the partners has a chance to observe the other partner's valuation. The efficiency of the Texas shootout mechanism positively depends on the probability of such observation while for 1 / 2-auction mechanism such relationship is not monotonic: the outcome is efficient when the probability of observing the other partner's signal is either zero or one, but it is inefficient for all intermediate values.
