Introduction. Launched in 1997, the Peugeot 406 Coupe was styled by Pininfarina. It looked fantastic then, and the baby Ferrari 465GT design has definitely aged well. Two engines were available from launch – a 2.0-litre petrol and a 3.0-litre V6. The range-topping SE trim got all the toys as well as leather trim, and is definitely the one to go for today.

In the case of the Peugeot 406 Coupe the base level specification is the "S" version and the top of the range is the "SE."

However you won't find an "S" badge on the rear of any 406 Coupe, in fact when it was introduced there was no mention of an "S" version at all in the Peugeot brochures, and there wasn't a 2.0 litre SE version available at all to begin with.
