Phase II Blood and Fire Part 2 Grading and Commentary ...

Free radicals in our cells are like little fires. Once a free radical is formed that "small fire" begins to grow just like a real fire.

If this fire is not put out. We additionally pay for variant types out by antioxidants then these fires cause serious damage to our cells, tissues, and then organs. Free radicals will damage our cell membranes, enzymes, blood lipoprotein, unsaturated fatty acids in our cell membranes and even damage our chromosomes and DNA.
