Analysis on the real number line, such as one encounters in an introductory course at the advanced undergraduate level (using, say, Rudin's Principles of Mathematical Analysis as a textbook), constitutes only a preliminary to a vast and far-reaching domain, the subject of real analysis properly so called. Hence, as a beginning graduate student, it is imperative to return to the subject and ...

2 REAL AND COMPLEX ANALYSIS (c) The restriction of \exp to the real axis is a monotonically increasing positive function, and

$e^{-x} \rightarrow 0$ as $x \rightarrow \infty$, (d) There exists a positive number n such that

$e^{1/n} = 1 + \epsilon$ and such that $e^{z/n} = 1$ if and only if $z/(2\pi i)$ is an integer.

(e) \exp is a periodic function, with period $2\pi i$.

There are three books that are usually used for a first graduate course in analysis, including measure theory, namely Rudin's Real and Complex

Analysis, Folland's Real Analysis, and Royden's book. Of the three, I would say Royden's book is the easiest, both in terms of the exposition, material, and exercises.
