Long Term Care Guide Prometheus Books

Learn about the exciting possibilities for maintaining elderly residents in their own homes by marshalling available resources to pay for needed support services. Experienced practitioners provide examples of successful community-based long-term care service programs for the elderly, programs that are supported by a mix of public funds and private resources. They explore the role of service providers in developing successful models of community-based long-term care services--housing, home care services, comprehensive senior centers, and day care, among others--and discuss not only the successes of the particular programs but the obstacles and barriers that had to be overcome as well. Chapters focus on policies for the development of effective models, from the perspectives of municipal, county, state, and federal governments involved in community service provision, and the role of colleges and universities in training personnel to develop and implement community-based long term care services. Taken together, this tutorial, taught by practitioners who offer wisdom and insight based on their hands-on experience, is indeed a unique contribution to the field of long-term care.

In this updated, revised look at the problems posed by a growing older population in need of special care, Tom Cassidy zeroes in on a worsening scenario in our society showing the potential for elder fraud and abuse rising dramatically. He notes that with the myriad repairmen, home health workers and salespeople who may have unsupervised access to the homes of the elderly, along with telemarketers and junk mail senders making sham offers, the opportunities for abuse of our elderly are huge. Tom Cassidy battled crimes against the elderly for twenty years as senior investigator with the New York State Attorney General's Medicaid Fraud Control Unit. Using actual case examples and the advice of professionals in medicine, law and finance, he examines crises in nursing homes, home care and assisted living arrangements; how to help the elderly understand and protect their rights; how to find safe living arrangements for the infirm; how to protect the vulnerable from victimization. Included is an updated, extensive list of national, state and Internet resources available for those who must make crucial elder care decisions. ### The Complete Canadian Eldercare Guide Da Capo Lifelong Books

The Longest Embrace is a solution-filled guide to coping with one of today's most urgent healthcare issues -- aging parents no longer able to care for themselves. The Longest Embrace is a timely, frank introduction to the challenges more than a third of American families already face as they care for elderly, declining parents or other family members. In 17 concise chapters, veteran Care Manager Barbara R. Hornby describes the emotional struggles and crises families are confronting, the healthcare system's strengths and shortcomings in dealing with the aged, the special problem of dementia, and practical solutions families can use to guide their parents through a more secure, fulfilling final chapter. Hornby's discussion includes a moving account of her own father's slow passing and dozens of examples from her 30-plus years as a geriatric nurse and care manager that dramatically illustrate the healthcare dilemmas families are experiencing.

Elder Care Journey National Academies Press

Family caregiving affects millions of Americans every day, in all walks of life. At least 17.7 million individuals in the United States are caregivers of an older adult with a health or functional limitation. The nation's family caregivers provide the lion's share of long-term care for our older adult population. They are also central to older adults' access to and receipt of health care and community-based social services. Yet the need to recognize and support caregivers is among the least appreciated challenges facing the aging U.S. population. Families Caring for an Aging America examines the prevalence and nature of family caregiving of older adults and the available evidence on the effectiveness of programs, supports, and other interventions designed to support family caregivers. This report also assesses and recommends policies to address the needs of family caregivers and to minimize the barriers that they encounter in trying to meet the needs of older adults.
