A Teacher Faces Layoff, Unemployment, and a Career Shift SELL4

Dr. Brooke Spencer always felt different from other girls. Now a successful scientist, she is finally discovering where she belongs: working alongside the brilliant, trailblazing researcher Dr. Charles Samuelson. Dr. Samuelson has recently made a discovery that has eluded philosophers and dreamers for centuries: How to transmute iron into gold. Determined to use the knowledge for good, Dr. Samuelson recruits Brooke to assist him with his new plan, his "Golden Manifesto." But humans are not alone and his discovery has not gone unnoticed. Extraterrestrial visitors seek to control Dr. Samuelson's Breakthrough, and before long, Brooke is all that stands between Earth and total Destruction. Will she be able to hold her ground? Or will the timeless temptation of gold prove too much for even the strongest of spirits? Brooke will soon face a choice that will make her question her background, her career, and the fate of the planet.

This is the comprehensively revised second edition of a popular professional book on textbook writing and finding one's way in the higher education publishing world--for academic authors and editors, college instructors, and instructional designers. The second edition has two new chapters on the latest industry trends--such as the pricing revolt, open access movement, and wiki-textbook phenomenon, and on the use of learning objectives to structure textbook package development. Every chapter features new sections, links, forms, models, or examples from an even greater range of college courses. Contains updated and expanded appendices, glossary entries, references, bibliography entries, and index. BISAC: Language Arts & Disciplines/Authorship and Publishing

Discrete Mathematics DIANE Publishing Technology has invaded our working and recreational lives to an extent that few envisaged 20 or 30 years ago. We'd be fools to avoid the developments in personal, mobile, and wearable technology. Even if we tried we'd still have to deal with other developments and distractions in classroom and learning technology like smart boards, blogs, video, games, students-led learning, virtual learning environments, social media, etc. More than this, however, is how the advances in technology, the economic and physical miniaturisation of computing devices, have impacted education: the students, the teachers, the classrooms, the spaces, the connections, the aspirations, etc. 'The Really Useful #EdTechBook' is about experiences, reflections, hopes, passions, expectations, and professionalism of those working with, in, and for the use of technology in education. Not only is it an insight into how, or why, we work with these technologies, it's about how we as learning professionals got to where we are and how we go forward with our own development. In this book respected individuals from different education sectors write about many aspects of learning technology; from Higher Education (Sue Beckingham, Peter Reed, Dr David Walker, Sheila MacNeil, Terese Bird, Wayne Barry, Inge de Waard, and Sharon Flynn), Further Education (Rachel Challen), to Museums (Zak Mensah), workplace learning (Julian Stodd, Julie Wedgwood, and Lesley Price) and primary schools / early years education (Mike McSharry). With a foreword written by Catherine Cronin, from the National University Ireland, Galway, the breadth and depth of the experiences here are second to none. The knowledge these leading learning practitioners, researchers, and professionals, share, under the same cover, is a unique opportunity for you to read about the variety of approaches to learning technology, the different perspectives on the same technology, and how technology is impacting our culture and learning infrastructure, from early-age classrooms to leading research Universities and from museums and workplace learning providers. It is about our passion for our work and our desire to make our work better through our own learning and development. Contributory authors: Catherine Cronin: Foreword David Hopkins: Introduction Wayne Barry: "...and what do you do?" : Can we explain the unexplainable? Zak Mensah: "Why do we do what we do?" Peter Reed: "The structure and roles of Learning Technologists within Higher Education Institutions" Rachel Challen: "Learning Technologists as agents of change? Blending policy and creativity" Julie Wedgwood: "Developing the skills and knowledge of a Learning Technologist" Dr David Walker and Sheila MacNeill: "Learning Technologist as Digital Pedagogue" Lesley Price: "Times they are a changing ...or not?" Sue Beckingham: "The Blended Professional: Jack-of-all-Trades and Master of Some?" Julian Stodd: "How gadgets help us learn" Terese Bird: "Students Leading the Way in Mobile Learning Innovation" Inge de Waard: "Tech Dandy, or the Art of Leisure Learning" Sharon Flynn: "Learning Technologists: changing the culture or preaching to the converted?" Mike McSharry: "This is your five-minute warning!"

Don Newman's first volume of Savannah centric poetry reflects the close personal relationship between poet and subject often found in work dedicated to a particular place. Such intimate subjectivity may seem lofty at times. But this Savannah native has a way of bringing grandiose notions of his hometown down to earth. Here, the author's regional sensibilities-together with his stretch toward the universal-offer the reader a unique perspective and a tour of Savannah unattainable during a typical day of sightseeing. While by no means a comprehensive poetic look at the city, Newman's Little Poetry Book of Savannah will surely augment the traveler's backpack, give visitors a distinctive literary keepsake, and make the perfect gift for those back home who would like an authentic little piece of Savannah. Meditative, descriptive, fun, quirky, and enjoyably honest, Newman bares parts of his soul in this down-to-earth, head-in-the-clouds "poetry for everyone." Note: This is the 3rd edition. If you need the 2nd edition for a course you are taking, it can be found as a "other format" on amazon, or by searching its isbn: 1534970746 This gentle introduction to discrete mathematics is written for first and second year math majors, especially those who intend to teach. The text began as a set of lecture notes for the discrete mathematics course at the University of Northern Colorado. This course serves both as an introduction to topics in discrete math and as the "introduction to proof" course for math majors. The course is usually taught with a large amount of student inquiry, and this text is written to help facilitate this. Four main topics are covered: counting, sequences, logic, and graph theory. Along the way proofs are introduced, including proofs by contradiction, proofs by induction, and combinatorial proofs. The book contains over 470 exercises, including 275 with solutions and over 100 with hints. There are also Investigate! activities throughout the text to support active, inquiry based learning. While there are many fine discrete math textbooks available, this text has the following advantages: It is written to be used in an inquiry rich course. It is written to be used in a course for future math teachers. It is open source, with low cost print editions and free electronic editions. This third edition brings improved exposition, a new section on trees, and a bunch of new and improved exercises.

For a complete list of changes, and to view the free electronic version of the text, visit the book's website at discrete.openmathbooks.org

The unfathomable rate of Black males in education should result in a national call to action. Across the country Black males represent only 2% of the teaching workforce. By the year 2024, minority students will be the majority, yet our current education workforce does not reflect this growing trend in what has been called "The Browning of America." Why is it acceptable that a student can matriculate from Kindergarten through twelfth grade and not have one Black male as his or her teacher? Why has it been a challenge to recruit and in many instances retain Black males in the classroom? Unopened Books explains what is referenced in the book as the Five Black Male Deterrents in Education. Through the personal narrative of Jermaine D. Gassaway, a native Washingtonian, educator, and school leader; coupled with practical solutions, Unopened Books provides insight to multiply the 2%. It is intended to not only be a provocative conversation starter but an actionable approach to increase the number of Black men in the classroom.

How to Sell Fashion DIANE Publishing

1 hour introductory course with live one-on-one instructors: (eBay and Amazon selling secrets aren't secrets for long if they are sold for just $10 and hundreds of people already bought them. The worst mistake you can make is purchase a $10 "How to Sell on eBay or Amazon" book that everyone bought. You are not going to be successful doing what everyone else is doing. Just remember that in the end, you really just get what you paid for.) This is our 1 hour introductory course to successfully sell on eBay or Amazon. The course will be taught by a live instructor via phone and using online platforms such as GoToMeeting or Zoom. The introductory course will give you a quick overview of all our listing tips and strategies. Course description: In this 1 hour course, one of our trained instructors will describe to you our listing tips and strategies. If we are not successful in increasing your sales, we will refund 100% of your money!
!Full resell rights: After you complete the course, we will give you full rights to all written material so you may resell it or use it to create your own training courses for other eBay sellers. Many of our trainees have gone on to sponsor their own successful eBay training seminars. 4 week training courses for Certified eBay Instructor Certificate: We do also offer 4 week training courses. The 4 week course is much more comprehensive and will give you the training needed to teach other sellers how to succeed on eBay. After completion of the 4 week course, you will be a Certified eBay Instructor and we will offer you the opportunity to teach our clients how to successfully sell on eBay. You may also list your services on your own eBay account and get paid directly by your own clients. Who needs our courses and training? There are hundreds of millions of eBay sellers and many are unsuccessful because they do not know many of the listing tips and strategies we will be teaching you. They need well trained instructors to help them successfully sell. The more sellers we have on eBay, the more products will be available. More products will attract more buyers and then more buyers will attract more sellers. This is the key to Amazon's success and we would like to apply it to eBay as well. Free lifetime support: We offer full money back guarantees if you are not 100% satisfied. Tips and Strategies to Successfully Sell on eBay and Amazon: eBay and Amazon is Always Changing Because eBay and Amazon are constantly changing, strategies that may work today will not work tomorrow. Many sellers do not understand that and do not make the proper adjustments to their listings. We can help any seller adapt to this new world of online selling. Just recently eBay and Amazon changed their search algorithm again and many sellers have seen drastic decreases in sales because they did not understand the algorithm. eBay and Amazon fail to understand that if more and more sellers drop out and there are less and less products on their sites, buyers will just move on to some other venue. We understand that as well and want to make sure eBay and Amazon has a diverse group of sellers who continues to offer great products. What is the item's value? There are many more recommendations we can offer you but to sell anything on eBay or Amazon, the buyer first needs to easily put a value on what you are trying to sell. Once a value is assigned to your item, then we can help you strategize how to effectively list it on eBay or Amazon. We can help buyer's value your item in such a way that they will buy it at the price you would like to sell. We offer recommendations and strategies to help increase your sales. If you are already a seller, please email us 2 to 3 listings you would like us to look at. We will then send you our recommendations. Thousands of sellers have found our recommendations very useful and applied them to their listings.
