If Phonetics is a
comparatively
recent subject
for European students of
foreign languages and is
eyed by them
with some suspicion as an
invention that is
meant to make
their studies
difficult, it is
even more so
with English Phonetics for African
students. Have not Africans
been learning
English for over
a century, and
with good
results in many cases, without giving a thought

to its phonetics?
Why introduce
this new subject
and add to the
number of books
they have to
read and the number of
examinations
pass before they can get their degree? Yet if the study of a
foreign language
is to be up to
date its
phonetics cannot
be neglected; on
the contrary, it
is as important
its spelling, if
not more so.
With the
invention of
radio and
telephone, of
gramophone and
tape-recorders,

the importance
of the spoken
word has
increased
immensely and it
is far more
essential now
than it was a
hundred years
ago that those who learn a
should learn to
speak it
properly. Thus a
new subject has
been added to
the schedule of
language
students and
teachers: the
study and
practice of the
sounds of the
language, and
for the teachers
also the study of
how to teach
these sounds.
