Das Erstgespräch mit einem Kunden aus dem B2B Bereich hat eine hohe Bedeutung für den weiteren Geschäftsverlauf. Diese Masterarbeit setzt sich aus einem theoretischen und einem empirischen Teil zusammen. Sie beschäftigt sich mit der Methode des SPIN Selling und zeigt auf wie eine Bedarfsanalyse in einem Erstgespräch mit einem potenziellen Neukunden aus der Versicherungsbranche durchgeführt werden kann. Da der Gesprächserfolg auch wesentlich von dem Gesprächspartner abhängt, wird zudem das Social Styles Modell näher vorgestellt. Dieses ermöglicht eine Analyse des Gegenübers und eine Zuordnung einem der vier Grundtypen dieses Modells. Zudem werden Lead Management und Opportunity Management als zwei Werkzeuge vorgestellt, die die Zusammenarbeit zwischen dem Marketing und dem Vertrieb begünstigen und eine lückenlose Aufzeichnung der Kundenkontakte ermöglichen. Der empirische Teil dieser Arbeit basiert auf zehn Experteninterviews, die mit Vertretern aus Versicherungsunternehmen geführt wurden. Dabei wurden zwei Geschäftsführer, vier Verkaufsleiter und vier Versicherungsvermittler interviewt. Die empirische Untersuchung hat darauf abgezielt herauszufinden wie sich diese Experten auf ein Erstgespräch vorbereiten, wie sie eine Bedarfsanalyse durchführen und welche Bedeutung sie der Analyse ihres Gesprächspartners beimessen. Aus den Ergebnissen der Untersuchung resultiert, dass die Vorbereitungsintensität stark variiert, der Bedarfsanalyse und der Einschätzung des Gesprächspartners in einem Erstgespräch eine hohe Wichtigkeit zugeschrieben wird und sich die Experten vor allem um den Aufbau einer persönlichen Basis im Erstgespräch bemühen.The first meeting with a customer in the fields of B2B has a great importance for the further course of business. This master thesis consists of a theoretical and an empirical part. It deals with the method of SPIN selling and shows how an analysis of demand during the first meeting with a potential customer in the insurance business can be performed. As the success of the interview essentially depends on the conversational partner the Social Styles model is being presented. This allows an analysis of the vis - à - vis and an assignment of one of the four layouts of this model. Furthermore Lead Management and Opportunity Management are presented as two tools which bring forward the collaboration between marketing, sales and distribution and provide a complete record of customer contacts. The empirical part is based on ten interviews with experts who were held with agents from a variety of insurance companies. In the process two business managers, four sales managers and four insurance salesmen have been interviewed. The empirical research tended to find out how these experts are preparing themselves for a first meeting with a customer, how they perform an analysis of needs and what meaning they attach to the analysis of their vis - à - vis. The outcome of this analysis results in a great diversity in the intensity of preparation. The analysis of needs as well as the evaluation of the vis - à - vis are of great importance and all of the experts are paying a lot of attention to build up a personal relationship with the vis - à - vis during the first meeting.

Media Selling John Wiley & Sons The New Psychology of Selling The sales profession is in the midst of a perfect storm. Buyers have more power—more information, more at stake, and more

control over the sales process—than any time in history. Technology is bringing disruptive change at an ever-increasing pace, creating fear and uncertainty that leaves buyers clinging to the status quo. Deteriorating attention spans have made it difficult to get buyers to sit still long enough to “challenge,” “teach,” “help,” “give insight,” or sell “value.” And a relentless onslaught of “me-too” competitors have made differentiating on the attributes of products, services, or even price more difficult than ever. Legions of salespeople and their leaders are coming face to face with a cold hard truth: what once gave salespeople a competitive edge—controlling the sales process, command of product knowledge, an arsenal of technology, and a great pitch—are no longer guarantees of success. Yet this is where the vast majority of the roughly $20 billion spent each year on sales training goes. It’s no wonder many companies are seeing 50 percent or more of their salespeople miss quota. Yet, in this new paradigm, an elite group of top 1 percent sales professionals are crushing it. In our age of technology where information is ubiquitous and buyer attention spans are fleeting, these superstars have learned how to leverage a new psychology of selling—Sales EQ—to keep prospects engaged, create true competitive differentiation, as well as shape and influence buying decisions. These top earners are acutely aware that the experience of buying from them is far more important than products, prices, features, and solutions. In Sales EQ, Jeb Blount takes you on an unprecedented journey into the behaviors, techniques, and secrets of the highest earning salespeople in every industry and field. You’ll learn: How to answer the 5 Most Important Questions in Sales to make it virtually impossible for prospects to say no How to master 7 People Principles that will give you the power to influence anyone to do almost anything How to shape and align the 3 Processes of Sales to lock out competitors and shorten the sales cycle How to Flip the Buyer Script to gain complete control of the sales conversation How to Disrupt Expectations to pull buyers towards you, direct their attention, and keep them engaged How to leverage Non-Complementary Behavior to eliminate resistance, conflict, and objections How to employ the Bridge Technique to gain the micro-commitments and next steps you need to keep your deals from stalling How to tame Irrational Buyers, shake them out of their comfort zone, and shape the decision making process How to measure and increase your own Sales EQ using the 15 Sales Specific Emotional Intelligence Markers And so much more! Sales EQ begins where The Challenger Sale, Strategic Selling, and Spin Selling leave off. It addresses the human relationship gap in the modern sales process at a time when sales organizations are failing because many salespeople have never been taught the human skills required to effectively engage buyers at the emotional level. Jeb Blount makes a compelling case that sales specific emotional intelligence (Sales EQ) is more essential to success than education, experience, industry awareness, product knowledge, skills, or raw IQ; and, sales professionals who invest in developing and improving Sales EQ gain a decisive competitive advantage in the hyper-competitive global marketplace. Sales EQ arms salespeople and sales leaders with the tool Combo Prospecting John Wiley & Sons

What's the secret to sales success? If you're like most business leaders, you'd say it's fundamentally about relationships—and you'd be wrong. The best salespeople don't just build relationships with customers. They challenge them. The need to understand what top-performing reps are doing that their average performing colleagues are not drove Matthew Dixon, Brent Adamson, and their colleagues at Corporate Executive Board to investigate the skills, behaviors, knowledge, and attitudes that matter most for high performance. And what they discovered may be the biggest shock to conventional sales wisdom in decades. Based on an exhaustive study of thousands of sales reps across multiple industries and geographies, The Challenger Sale argues that classic relationship building is a losing approach, especially when it comes to selling complex, large-scale business-to-business solutions. The authors' study found that every sales rep in the world falls into one of five distinct profiles, and while all of these types of reps can deliver average sales performance, only one—the Challenger—delivers consistently high performance. Instead of bludgeoning customers with endless facts and features about their company and products, Challengers approach customers with unique insights about how they can save or make money. They tailor their sales message to the customer's specific needs and objectives. Rather than acquiescing to the customer's every demand or objection, they are assertive, pushing back when necessary and taking control of the sale. The things that make Challengers unique are replicable and teachable to the average sales rep. Once you understand how to identify the Challengers in your organization, you can model their approach and embed it throughout your sales force. The authors explain how almost any average-performing rep, once equipped with the right tools, can successfully reframe customers' expectations and deliver a distinctive purchase experience that drives higher levels of customer loyalty and, ultimately, greater growth. Communication Skills for Effective Management SAGE

In this book, the authors look in turn at each of the key management tasks, from meetings to negotiation, from writing reports to using the telephone, and they provide practical guidance for increased effectiveness. Other chapters cover non-verbal communication and 'doing things right and doing the right thing'. The text is presented in a lively way but also with academic rigour, and is supported throughout by exercises, checklists and ready-to-use formats.

True or false? In selling high-value products or services: 'closing' increases your chance of success; it is essential to describe the benefits of your product or service to the customer; objection handling is an important skill; open questions are more effective than closed questions. All false, says this provocative book. Neil Rackham and his team studied more than 35,000 sales calls made by 10,000 sales people in 23 countries over 12 years. Their findings revealed that many of the methods developed for selling low-value goods just don't work for major sales. Rackham went on to introduce his SPIN-Selling method. SPIN describes the whole selling process: Situation questions Problem questions Implication questions Need-payoff questions SPIN-Selling provides you with a set of simple and practical techniques which have been tried in many of today's leading companies with dramatic improvements to their sales performance.

THE BESTSELLING AUTHOR OF PITCH ANYTHING IS BACK TO FLIP YOUR ENTIRE APPROACH TO PERSUASION. Is there anything worse than a high-pressure salesperson pushing you to say "yes" (then sign on the dotted line) before you're ready? If there's one lesson Oren Klaff has learned over decades of pitching, presenting, and closing long-shot, high-stakes deals, it's that people are sick of being marketed and sold to. Most of all, they hate being told what to think. The more you push them, the more they resist. What people love, however, is coming up with a great idea on their own, even if it's the idea you were guiding them to have all along. Often, the only way to get someone to sign is to make them feel like they're smarter than you. That's why Oren is throwing out the old playbook on persuasion. Instead, he'll show you a new approach that works on this simple insight: Everyone trusts their own ideas. If, rather than pushing your idea on your buyer, you can guide them to discover it on their own, they'll believe it, trust it, and get excited about it. Then they'll buy in and feel good about the chance to work with you. That might sound easier said than done, but Oren has taught thousands of people how to do it with a series of simple steps that anyone can follow in any situation. And as you'll see in this book, Oren has been in a lot of different situations. He'll show you how he got a billionaire to take him seriously, how he got a venture capital firm to cough up capital, and how he made a skeptical Swiss banker see him as an expert in banking. He'll even show you how to become so compelling that buyers are even more attracted to you than to your product. These days, it's not enough to make a great pitch. To get attention, create trust, and close the deal, you need to flip the script.
