Solution focused brief therapy (SFBT) was developed by Steve de Shazer, Insoo Kim Berg, and their colleagues at the Brief Family Therapy Center, Milwaukee, in the 1970s (de Shazer et al., 1986). It is based on the work of psychiatrist and noted hypnotherapist Milton H. Erickson. SFBT differs from problem-based therapies.

What is Solution-Focused Therapy: 3 Essential Techniques

The basic tenets that inform Solution-Focused Brief Therapy are as follows:

- It is based on solution-building rather than problem-solving.
- The therapeutic focus should be on the client's desired future rather than on past problems or current conflicts.
- Clients are encouraged to increase the frequency of current useful behaviors.

Solution-Focused Family Therapy | Our Everyday Life

Solution-focused therapy is a type of treatment that highlights a client's ability to solve problems, rather than why or how the problem was created. It was developed over some time after observations of therapists in a mental health facility in Wisconsin by Steve de Shazer and Insoo Kim Berg and their colleagues.

Solution Focused Newsletter • Institute for Solution ...

Solution Focused Therapy has a very specific format for asking the client questions which keeps the client focused on the present and future. Questions about the past are primarily a means of gathering information about the client and showing the therapist's empathy.

These criteria determine whether treatment has been successful. In this way, the solution-focused model of treatment shares the identified problem and outcome criteria of other treatment models. The difference is how the solution-focused clinician guides the conversation toward these discharge criteria.
