Whereas the federal government and state governments share power in countless ways, a local government must be granted power by the state. In general, mayors, city councils, and other governing ...

State And Local Government Fourteenth

The country is divided into independent federal, state and local governments. There are fifty states in the US but all of them have different constitutions, separate laws and state flags. Several laws, including those pertaining to death penalty, gay and lesbian marriages or age of eligibility to use alcoholic drinks, differ from one state to the other.

Ignoring the existing state governments, military government was imposed until new civil governments were established and the Fourteenth Amendment was ratified. It also prompted Congress to pass a law on March 2, 1867, requiring that a former Confederate state must ratify the Fourteenth Amendment before "said State shall be declared entitled to representation in Congress".

Baltimore, the Supreme Court of the United States held that the Bill of Rights did not apply
to state

governments; such protections were instead provided by the constitutions of each state. After the Civil War ,

Congress and the states ratified the Fourteenth Amendment
, which included the
Due Process Clause
and the Privileges
or Immunities Clause

I am going to take a chance and assume that you are interested mainly in whether the equal protection and due process clauses of the 14th amendment apply to both the states and the federal government. The answer to that is they do not. Those clauses are a restriction only against the states.
