The problem of classifying the finite-dimensional simple Lie algebras over fields of characteristic  $p > 0$  is a long-standing one. Work on this question during the last 45 years has been directed by the Kostrikin-Shafarevich Conjecture of 1966, which states that over an algebraically closed field of characteristic  $p > 5$  a finite-dimensional restricted simple Lie algebra is classical or of Cartan type. This conjecture was proved for  $p > 7$  by Block and Wilson in 1988. The generalization of the Kostrikin-Shafarevich Conjecture for the general case of not necessarily restricted Lie algebras and  $p > 7$  was announced in 1991 by Strade and Wilson and eventually proved by Strade in 1998. The final Block-Wilson-Strade-Premet Classification Theorem is a landmark result of modern mathematics and can be formulated as follows: Every finite-dimensional simple Lie algebra over an algebraically closed field of characteristic  $p > 3$  is of classical, Cartan, or Melikian type. In the three-volume book, the author is assembling the proof of the Classification Theorem with explanations and references. The goal is a state-of-the-art account on the structure and classification theory of Lie algebras over fields of positive characteristic leading to the forefront of current research in this field. This first volume is devoted to preparing the ground for the classification work to be performed in the second and third volume. The concise presentation of the general theory underlying the subject matter and the presentation of classification results on a subclass of the simple Lie algebras for all odd primes make this volume an invaluable source and reference for all research mathematicians and advanced graduate students in algebra.

Casper Stratler (Strade) was born before 1710 in Germany. He died in 1778 in Alsace, Berks County, Pennsylvania. He had two sons, Johan Heinrich Stradter who lived in Berks County and Conrad Strader who died in 1809 in Caswell, North Carolina. Descendants lived in North Carolina, Missouri, Washington, and elsewhere. Many went by the surname "Strader".

Il tema è quanto mai attuale, visto lo stato in cui versa il manto stradale in Italia. E il volume vuole essere una vera e propria guida per orientarsi nella complessa materia della responsabilità civile della pubblica amministrazione per omessa o cattiva manutenzione delle strade. Non a caso, una buona parte delle azioni legali proposte contro gli enti locali o, comunque, contro gli enti titolari delle strade (Anas, società Autostrade s.p.a.) hanno ad oggetto proprio le pretese risarcitorie avanzate dal cittadino vittima di sinistri causati dalle cattive condizioni delle arterie stradali. Il volume analizza nel dettaglio la giurisprudenza in materia e le teorie sulla responsabilità della pubblica amministrazione che si sono contese il campo. Ma è importante anche la parte dedicata ai risvolti penalistici e risarcitori cui dà luogo la responsabilità per omessa o cattiva manutenzione delle strade. Di estremo interesse anche l'analisi della responsabilità per cattiva manutenzione delle autostrade e delle strade vicinali, nonché della ditta appaltatrice delle stesse. Ciascun capitolo si conclude con una rassegna della più recente giurisprudenza sull'argomento di volta in volta trattato. Conclude l'opera il richiamo agli aspetti processuali della questione ed un pratico formulario.

Written during the 1920s, when the author was in her 50's, the short pieces in this collection are sketches of the women and men that Ada Negri met or observed during her travels around Italy and Switzerland. After her beloved daughter Bianca married and Negri's own marriage had broken down, the writer began a life of wandering that led to a stay of several years on Capri and extended visits to Lago Maggiore and the northern Italian countryside.

As we travel with Negri, we meet waitresses and tourists, bohemians and noblemen, office clerks and builders, servants and celebrities. As always, Negri is focused on class distinctions, women's interactions, and the domestic sphere. As she travels and sees the different ways others live, Negri expresses her forever-unfulfilled longing to find a place to settle down and belong. These stories give the reader a unique glimpse into the lives of early 20th century Italians from all walks of life. Translated into crisp and evocative English, this collection will bring new readers to an appreciation of Ada Negri and will inspire a new generation of Negri enthusiasts.
