Leaky aura syndrome is an issue blighting the lives of many empaths without their knowledge. It is a condition where the auric field develops tears or becomes overly porous... Low moods, depleted energy, brain fog, overwhelm, unusually heightened senses, feeling constantly dissatisfied, run down, or out of sorts, no matter what you do for your health, could be a sign your energy field is damaged. If you remember a time when you could go to the mall without feeling drained, or have memories of spending time with certain people without becoming overwhelmed, you could have developed leaky aura syndrome. The disorder makes empath life unnecessarily challenging. But the good news is it can be undone. This book explains leaky aura syndrome, details the causes, and gives steps to reverse the problem.
