Scholarly Research Paper from the year 2007 in the subject Business economics - Marketing, Corporate Communication, CRM, Market Research, Social Media, grade: 1,3, University of Applied Sciences Berlin, course: Marketing, language: English, comment: This paper provides content on 31 pages and furthermore, there is an Integral Total Management Checklist at the end giving a 360-degree feedback to the topic under all management perspectives., abstract: Due to strong competition and a continuous market change, most companies engage in strategic planning today to become or stay competitive in the long run. Strategy is all-embracing. Strategy has to capture internal and external aspects, that means to comprise competencies and market opportunities. Strategy has to keep in view the own company, the customers and the competitors. The challenge is to create customer values and competitive advantages to assure benefits and growth. As a result, the starting point of every strategic decision demonstrates the recognition and the analysis of the company's current situation containing a high variety of parameters. These parameters are generally defined by the company's influence into internal and external parameters. However, the understanding of the company's situation is only defined in absolute by analysing parameters and its bilateral dependencies. Therefore, the combination of the company's internal factors and the external environmental circumstances presents the basis for the strategy development and the resulting organisational marketing goals and application of the marketing instruments. The SWOT analysis is a strategic planning tool used to evaluate the Strengths, Weaknesses, Opportunities and Threats of a company. It provides information that is helpful in matching the company's resources and capabilities to the competitive environment in which it operates. The resulting SWOT matrix contrasts the results of the internal analysis (strengths and weakness) and the ex

The Quintessence of Strategic Management Routledge

The innovative and unique feature of this book is that it does not contain theoretical concept that cannot be translated into practice. The model which introduces this volume sets the stage for addressing the major phases of the strategic management process: environmental analysis, strategy formulation and development, strategy evaluation and control. Its conceptual and operational structure is described in the first part, together with a practically oriented definition of strategy, and a brief discussion of the logic and benefits of the judgmental modeling approach to decision making. The second part critically addresses the classical approaches to the analysis of the external and internal environmental factors, which have an impact on the " functioning " of the basic model, i.e. the structural characteristics of the industry context, and the companies ' technical, organizational, financial, and human resources, including the translation into operational models of otherwise rather theoretical concepts.

Strategic management. Analysis of a potential merge between two hidden champions John Wiley & Sons Strategic Management deals with the recognizable proof and portrayal of the methodologies that the management can convey to accomplish better execution and a prerogative for their organization. An organization is said to have an allowance for its benefits, which are higher than the regular productivity for the businesses within the industrial framework. Strategic management can likewise be termed as a heap of choices and acts which an administrator embraces and decides the after-effect of the organization's performance. The manager must have a deep learning and assessment of the prevailing competitive institutional environment to take the right preferences. The managerial hierarchy should direct a SWOT Analysis (Strengths, Weaknesses, Opportunities, and Threats), which means they should make the most ideal usage of qualities, limit the institutional shortcomings, utilize emerging open doors from the business opportunities and should not disregard the inherent and upcoming threats.
