The Art Of Closing Sale

In sales terms, closing is generally defined as the moment when a prospect or customer decides to make the purchase. Very few prospects will self close, making it necessary for the salesperson to instigate the close. This can be unnerving, especially for new salespeople, as it leaves the salesperson open to the chance of rejection from the prospect.

Here are 4 highly effective sales closing techniques that are popular with sales reps: 1. The assumptive close: This technique involves using a phrase or language that assumes the close is a done deal. For example, you could close with, "What day do you want to receive your shipment?" 2. The option close: Similar to the assumptive close, rather than asking for a prospect's business directly, you ask them which option they prefer.
