A creed is a statement of the shared beliefs of community in the form of a fixed formula summarizing core tenets. The earliest creed in Christianity, "Jesus is Lord", originated in the writings of Saint Paul. One of the most widely used creeds in Christianity is the Nicene Creed, first formulated in AD 325 at the First Council of Nicaea. It was based on Christian understanding of the Canonical Gospels, the letters of the New Testament and to a lesser extent the Old Testament. Affirmation of this

The Apostles' Creed begins, "I believe in God, the Father Almighty, creator of heaven and earth."

Christians believe there is a God, a Supreme Being, an Ultimate Reality that created the universe. Many would be willing to use the term "God" when referring to the creative and powerful forces that gave rise to, and hold together, the universe as we know it — forces such as the mysterious "dark energy" of astrophysics.
