The Disappearance of Childhood Quotes by Neil Postman

Postman has swung dogmatically from Teaching as a Subversive Activity (1969) to Teaching as a Conserving Activity (1979) and landed, now, in the coils of social history. His simple, endlessly elaborated theme: ""the symbolic area in which a society conducts itself will either make childhood necessary or irrelevant."" This translates into the notion of childhood being ""invented"" along with

... The Disappearance of Childhood by Neil Postman ... Curiosity is replaced by cynicism or, even worse, arrogance. We are left with children who rely not on authoritative adults but on news from nowhere. We are left with children who are given answers to questions they never asked. We are left, in short, without children. ” Neil Postman, The Disappearance of Childhood

The Disappearance of Childhood - Kindle edition by Neil ...

In this book, Neil Postman argues that (a) childhood is a social construct, not a biological fact and (b) childhood is disappearing because of television and modernity in general. The former is debatable but defensible (his exclusive focus on Europe/America leaves significant holes in his argument), but the latter is just ridiculous.
