Lynas - Goodreads

Mark Lynas is an environmentalist who is not afraid to challenge established environmentalist dogma. The most profound example of this is when he makes the very thorough and convincing case that it is nuclear power, in fact, which is the most environmentally sound source of electrical power for our modern lives.

I just finished Mark
Lynas's "The God Species: How the Planet can Survive in the Age of Humans." I read his Six Degrees
late last year and
recommended it highly.
Six Degrees is
specifically a well-
done survey of climate change research. The God Species is a broader look at challenges to the planet that follows

the planetary boundaries research.
