In Jun'ichiro Tanizaki's The Key, a man writes in his diary about the sexual fantasies he has been having about his wife. Hoping she'll read it, he locks it in a drawer and leaves the key on the floor. As soon as his wife sees the key, she understands her husband's intentions

and begins, in turn,
to keep her own diary.

Junichiro Tanizaki is an excellent author. Although The Key is described as one of the most ordinary books by Tanizaki by his fans, it is, in my opinion, highly engaging. It explains how different and so similar human beings can be in a fascinating way; and you'll read it in no time.
