It's England in the Swinging 60s-70s. The brilliant cover art by Picacio deposits you right into that vibe Austin Powers tried so hard to capture (and mostly did). Richard Jeperson is the Diogenes Club's psychic detective, and these are some of his cases. You will come back for more, because they are THAT good.

Maybe you need to be of a certain age.

Diogenes made a virtue of poverty. He begged for a living and often slept in a large ceramic jar, or pithos, in the marketplace. He became notorious for his philosophical stunts, such as carrying a lamp during the day, claiming to be looking for an honest man. He criticized Plato, disputed his interpretation of Socrates, and sabotaged his lectures, sometimes distracting listeners by bringing food and eating during the discussions.

Diogenes was also noted for having mocked Alexander the Great, bo

Diogenes Club series - Wikipedia

Diogenes is the mostly silent protagonist of Getting Over It with Bennett Foddy. His character references the ancient Greek philosopher Diogenes, a man who would often sleep in a pot in the marketplace of Athens as a protest against Greek society. Similarly, Getting Over It's Diogenes lives with half of his body inside of a black metal cauldron.
