The joke was on Claire. And so was Mom's debt. In this job, you don't want to get the Red Folder from HR. The retirement package blows. And a pink slip is a one-way ticket to Hell. But when Claire's accused of somehow murdering Junior, The Boss's immortal son, it's no use pleading innocent. Someone's setting her up, and she's got no choice but to run-and try to figure out why there's a target painted on her back. Her only hope is to solve Junior's murder before the Cleaners catch up with her. She didn't count on being kidnapped by the four most dangerous hellspawn still alive. And discovering there's a secret flowing in her blood not even she knew about? That's just icing on the Underworld cake. Note to reader: Book 1 of this four-book series contains a kickass paranormal girl with a so-not-glam PA job, a quest that takes her from the sunny Caribbean to the decidedly sunless Underworld, druids, demons, pagans, and

"Engrossing . . . The mysterious and dangerous waterfront world of London's 'longest street,' the Thames, comes to life."—South Florida Sun-Sentinel

William Monk knows London's streets like the back of his hand. But the river Thames and its teeming docks—where wharf rats and night plunderers ply their trades—is unknown territory. Only Monk's dire need for work persuades him to accept an assignment from shipping magnate Clement Louvain, to investigate the theft of a cargo of African ivory from Louvain's recently docked schooner, the Maude Idris. But why didn't Louvain report the ivory theft directly to the River Police?

Another mystery is the appearance of a desperately ill woman who Louvain claims is the discarded mistress of an old friend.

Is she connected to story to comment on the theft, or to something much darker? As Monk endeavors to solve these riddles, he can't imagine the trap that will soon so fatefully ensnare him.
