Bold themes and vivid detail mark this sweeping history of armed violence in the twentieth century. Ferguson seeks answers for why that era -- particularly the years between 1904 and 1953 -- was the bloodiest in history. He argues that explanations focusing on changes in technologies of war, the ...

"war of the world." The twentieth century was the bloodiest era in history. World War I killed between 9 million and 10 million people, more if the influenza pandemic of 1918-19 is seen as a consequence of the war. Another 59 million died in World War II. And those conflicts were only two of the more deadly ones in the last hundred years. By one
