Former Secret Service agent and star of Bravo 's Spy Games Evy Poumpouras shares lessons learned from protecting presidents, as well insights and skills from the oldest and most elite security force in the world to help you prepare for stressful situations, instantly read people, influence how you are perceived, and live a more fearless life. Becoming Bulletproof means transforming yourself into a stronger, more confident, and more powerful person. Evy Poumpouras—former Secret Service agent to three presidents and one of only five women to receive the Medal of Valor—demonstrates how we can overcome our everyday fears, have difficult conversations, know who to trust and who might not have our best interests at heart, influence situations, and prepare for the unexpected. When you have become bulletproof, you are your best, most courageous, and most powerful version of you. Poumpouras shows us that ultimately true strength is found in the mind, not the body. Courage involves facing our fears, but it is also about resilience, grit, and having a built-in BS detector and knowing how to use it. In Becoming Bulletproof, Poumpouras demonstrates how to heighten our natural instincts to employ all these qualities and move from fear to fearlessness.

Stan Rushworth's Diaspora's Children is the story of a mixed heritage man raised by his grandfather who gave him a value system and way of being that came into sharp contrast when he was called to duty as Vietnam vet. More than a memoir, Rushworth weaves his life story into an eloquent treatise on the effects of a genocide upon an entire race of people, 90% of whom were decimated in California alone by the colonization of North America. Brilliantly written with a deeply heartfelt tone, this is a book that deepens understanding of the effects of genocide, educating and enlightening the reader about the tragic consequences of the ubiquitous ways of "progress" that has resulted in racism, climate change and destruction of ancient tribal customs and cultures. Understanding deeply these consequences brings us to a place where healing can begin.

Santa Ana Pueblo, Orlando Cruz, takes us on a journey from the front lines of the stand off at Standing Rock, North Dakota, to the Indigenous Peoples March, in Washington, D.C. As we listen to the story told in Orlando's own voice, we are transported to the places he describes and feel as if we are traveling along with him. His kind spirit and gentle voice make us right at home and we slip into the story, unaware we have become a part of it as he draws us in with his open heart, insightful anecdotes and songs. His story is speckled with humor, mixed with deep thought and emotion, giving us a glimpse into what it's like to be a Native American activist and water protector today. Throughout the book, Orlando, asks the questions that get people thinking in the direction of "How do I be more conscious in my life?" Asking the question begins to move us towards becoming the answer. Join Orlando Cruz's Vibe Tribe, as he takes you around live with Native Media Network. Check out the hand made items Orlando makes to support his travels. Look for a drum, headband, or t shirt made at Orlando's home on the reservation. Orlando's cool artist friends are listed in the book too. Read the book, make some new friends, and join in the fun writing your own round dance song.
