"An excellent resource for all nurses - especially Advanced Practice Nurses - considering the selection of an Electronic Health Record system or learning about the implementation process." Nadia Sultana, Clinical Assistant Professor, Program Coordinator, Nursing Informatics Master's and Advanced Certificate Programs, New York University College of Nursing, NY
OVERVIEW This learning guide describes Vista CPRS software, and what is needed to install, learn, and use it. It is one in a series of quick learning guides on electronic health records (EHR) software published by Technical Consulting & Research, Inc. Research indicates that between 40-50% of all EHR system implementations fail to meet expectations. This reflects the difficulty in finding a solution matched to the needs of the medical/health care organization - especially when there are over three-hundred vendor offerings from which to choose! Especially for new users, it can be overwhelming to navigate and learn the many complex features built into electronic health records software. The quick learning guide uses a structured approach to demonstrate common clinical and practice management functions and key system screens. The material in this guide is based on hands-on testing in a controlled computer environment, field research in clinical settings, and experiences working with leading solution providers and EHR vendors. The quick learning guide is intended for the following types of readers: Physicians, Advanced Practice Nurses (Nurse Practitioner, Clinical Nurse Specialist, Certified Registered Nurse Anesthetist, and Certified Nurse-Midwife), practice administrators, and other clinical and practice management staff who wish to learn more about Vista software, and what it is like to implement and use it: Lots of actual system screenshots and flow charts are included to depict the user experience, in the absence of hands-on access to the Vista CPRS software. Essential system information is presented in a concise format, sparing the reader hours of painstaking research and time-consuming data collection. Educators and students who want or need to learn about EHR software or Vista in particular: This guide shows what clinical and practice management tasks are supported in Vista CPRS and how these tasks are supported. Students in Computer Science, Information Technology, Industrial Engineering, Engineering, Management of Technology, Bioinformatics, and Nursing programs with an interest in EHR software may find this report of particular interest. This guide can be used in any undergraduate or graduate level medical informatics course. Health Information Management (HIM) professionals, industry consultants and decision makers: This guide provides information that is useful in evaluating and comparing Vista software with other EHR solutions. Developers of EHR solutions: This guide provides details on features and functions that should be incorporated into an EHR solution. This may aid in the design and development of new EHR solutions or the enhancement of existing ones.

FEATURES: - Flowcharts summarizing key concepts - Numerous system screenshots illustrating major features and functions - Step-by-step implementation instructions - Work-flow mapping to hands-on user experience with Vista CPRS
TOPICS INCLUDE: typical workflows in an ambulatory medical practice; hands-on user experience with Vista CPRS; client-server software design; Vista CPRS technology overview; development history of Vista CPRS software; major system screens; where to find other resources for documentation, training and technical support; potential pitfalls and complications when converting to Vista electronic health records software.

Keith Johnstone's involvement with the theatre began when George Devine and Tony Richardson, artistic directors of the Royal Court Theatre, commissioned a play from him. This was in 1956. A few years later he was himself Associate Artistic Director, working as a play-reader and director, in particular helping to run the Writers' Group. The improvisatory techniques and exercises evolved there to foster spontaneity and narrative skills were developed further in the actors' studio then in demonstrations to schools and colleges and ultimately in the founding of a company of performers, called The Theatre Machine. Divided into four sections, 'Status', 'Spontaneity', 'Narrative Skills', and 'Masks and Trance', arranged more or less in the order a group might approach them, the book sets out the specific techniques and exercises which Johnstone has himself found most useful and most stimulating. The result is both an ideas book and a fascinating exploration of the nature of spontaneous creativity.

The Creation of the Mods and Rockers

Crime analysis has become an increasingly important part of policing and crime prevention, and thousands of specialist crime analysts are now employed by police forces worldwide. This is the first book to set out the principles and practice of crime analysis, and is designed to be used both by crime analysts themselves, by those responsible for the training of crime analysts and teaching its principles, and those teaching this subject as part of broader policing and criminal justice courses. The particular focus of this book is on the adoption of a problem solving approach, showing how crime analysis can be used and developed to support a problem oriented policing approach – based on the idea that the police should concentrate on identifying patterns of crime and anticipating crimes rather than just reacting to crimes once they have been committed. In his foreword to this book, Nick Ross, presenter of BBC Crime Watch, argues passionately that crime analysts are 'the new face of policing', and have a crucial part to play in the increasingly sophisticated police response to crime and its approach to crime prevention – 'You are the brains, the expert, the specialist, the boffin.'
