Paper tape hurts me less, but doesn't stick as well and obviously isn't very flexible. And most cloth tapes give me trouble, though they are usually a little better than any adhesive bandage. My dermatologist recommended using hypafix over a nonstick bandage pad. (I usually cut a large pad down to smaller pieces in the size I need.)

Rated 3 out of 5 by FrauF15 from Dispenser & Refills - Not Compatible I recently bought bandages, a paper tape roll with dispenser and paper tape refills for a recent surgery leaving me with 10 stitches in a 2" long wound. I failed to notice that the dispenser tape was 3/4" and the refills 1". So I looked online to find where I could get either 3/4" refills or 1" dispenser by Nexcare.
