This section of the whirlpool icemaker repair guide I will walk you through the steps in a whirlpool icemaker not making ice. First thing you should check is the feeler arm (not on models with the ice bin mounted on the freezer door). The feeler arm is the metal wire that stops the icemaker when the ice-bin gets full.

On Whirlpool Ice makers most of the ice maker's parts can be checked for resistance through the front of the ice maker.

Note: The refrigerator must be unplugged for any resistance readings to be successful and prevent damage your volt meter. Set your multimeter to measure resistance, next insert your meter leads into the test points to check the corresponding ice maker component. L and H will measure heater's resistance it should be about 72 ohms.

(Some resistance not open)
