I am looking to add a planter to our operation, with the additional ground we rented for next year we need the control we dont have with a custom planter. I have been offered a White 5100 6-row without any fertilizer.

It has Martin Row Cleaners, new double disk openers, CIH gauge wheel tires, Kee...

Any row cleaner that fits a JD maxemerge will work on a White faceplate, you will have to drill some new holes. Martin and Dawn have row cleaners for White. Chances are you will have wear in gauge wheel pivots so plan on fixing with RK products. A 5100 with new disks and tight gauge wheels is a very good planter.

White Oliver 5100 Seed Boss Planter Operators Manual OL | eBay
The White 5100 Seed Boss row crop planter was operated in various field conditions (TABLE 1) for about 100 hours while seeding 885 ac (360 ha) of corn and 100 ac (40 ha) of sunflowers. It was evaluated for quality of work, ease of operation and adjustment, rate of work, power requirements, operator safety and suitability of the operator manual.

Manuals and Guides | White Planters

A few of the early 4 row 5100's had individual blowers but most have the central one. Blower can drive off of tractor hydraulics if you have a closed center system. We did that with an Oliver 1755 and White

2-105. They also have a pto pump similar to the IH's.

White's don't take near the power to operate though.

I am looking at a White 5100
Planter. What
are the pros
and cons to this planter? I will use it for corn. Does it have any particular

weaknesses I should look for or be aware of?
It is a 4 row
wide with dry fertilizer. I beleive it has
the central air
pump, not the individual
electric air
pumps. Thanks.
