Argumentative Writing in a Second Language is a collection on teaching argumentative writing, offering multiple vantage points drawn from the contributors' own teaching and research experiences. The value of learning how to compose argumentative texts cannot be overstated, and yet, very little attention has been allocated to the equally important topic of how argumentation is or can be taught in the L2 context. Thus, this volume shifts attention to teachers and argumentative writing instruction, especially within increasingly common multimodal and digital literacy settings. While doing so, it provides a comprehensive, wide-ranging view of the L2 argumentative writing landscape within an instructional lens. Part I of the volume is topic-oriented and focuses on explorations of important issues and perspectives, while Part II features several chapters reporting classroom-based studies of a variety of instructional approaches that expand our understanding of how argumentative writing can be taught. The book will be of value to pre-service and in-service teachers in varying instructional contexts, as well as teacher educators and L2 writing scholars/researchers.

Following on from Writers at Work: The Paragraph and Writers at Work: the Short Composition, Writers at Work: The Essay will teach the basics of academic essay writing to intermediate-level students. In Writers at Work: The Essay, college and university students use the process approach to write different genres of essays common at the post-secondary level, the most important being expository writing, persuasive writing, and timed essay exams. Each chapter uses the same five-step approach to writing that is used in the two lower-level books. In each chapter, students analyze a model essay, noticing key organizational and linguistic features; brainstorm ideas; write multiple drafts; revise their work; engage in peer reviews; and share their finished work. Chapters recycle and build upon previously taught material.

Research Question: How will the use of a graphic organizer affect the overall cohesiveness of sixth grade students' essay writing? Research Activities: The focus of this intervention was to teach students how to use a graphic organizer as a tool to provide structure and organization while writing a problem and solution essay, a genre of writing required by the California Content Standards for sixth grade. Context: This intervention took place in a 6th grade, self-contained classroom with 29 students. Methods and Data: The intervention spanned three consecutive weeks and took 14 days to implement. First, students were introduced to the graphic organizer and created a problem and solution essay as a whole class. Then students used the graphic organizer to create their own problem and solution essay related to a curricular novel. Finally, students used the graphic organizer to write a problem and solution essay on a topic of their choice. Data sets include students' essays before and after having used the graphic organizer. Organization was measured by a rubric score and the "overall cohesiveness" of the essay. An essay was scored as "Cohesive" if it had one main idea, stuck to that main idea throughout the essay, and if information was presented in a logical order. Also, attitudinal data includes teacher notes from a class discussion about writing before and after the intervention. Results: Overall, students' essay organization improved. About 79% of the post-intervention writing samples were scored as "Cohesive," and received higher rubric scores than the pre-intervention writing samples. Students expressed use of graphic organizers made writing more enjoyable and indicated a stronger desire to use graphic organizers as a writing strategy. Grade Level: Sixth Grade. Data Collection Methods: Discussion notes, Observation-Field Notes, Student Work, Survey-Attitude, Writing Samples. Curriculum Areas: Writing. Instructional Approaches: Graphic organizers/concept maps, Writing-Expository, Writing-Rubrics.
